Specification

- Rural setting in north Buckinghamshire
- May suit local tradespeople, contractors and small businesses
- Best suited to occupiers with modest delivery and vehicle movements
- Proposed uses subject to confirmation of planning status and any necessary consents

Description

School Hill Barns comprises a collection of rural buildings in the Buckinghamshire village of Charndon. The barns offer scope for a small business seeking space to store tools, materials or equipment, or to establish a workshop, subject to any necessary consents.

Access is via the village road network. The site is therefore likely to suit a locally based occupier whose day-to-day activity involves occasional deliveries and light vehicle movements. Interested parties should satisfy themselves that the access and accommodation meet their operational requirements.

Location

School Hill Barns is situated on School Hill in the Buckinghamshire village of Charndon, approximately eight miles east of Bicester. The property occupies a rural setting close to the villages of Twyford, Edgcott and Grendon Underwood. Local roads provide access to the A41, which links Bicester to the west with Aylesbury to the south-east.
