

Leadership without a gender.

The changing role of women in business.

7 November 2018 | 17:30 - 19:30

Henley Business School – ICMA Centre
Foyer & Lecture Theatre 150

Book now: hly.ac/Women-In-Business-18

Where business comes to life

Sponsored by:

Your speakers

Fiona Kowalyk
Director at Barclays
Investment Bank

Fiona works on the debt syndicate desk for new issues of corporate and government bonds. She started her career over 40 years ago in non-financial industries, including a role at the Supreme Headquarters Allied Powers Europe in Belgium as a NATO civilian. Afterwards, she worked at Goldman Sachs for almost 20 years mostly on the syndicate desk. She joined Barclays in 2009 as a VP and became a Director in 2013. Fiona is on the Steering Committee of the ICMA Women's Network.

Bridget Long
Vice President/General Manager of London
and South-East England,
Enterprise Holdings

Bridget is responsible for the operational delivery, management and development of Enterprise Rent-A-Car, Alamo Rent A Car, National Car Rental, Exotics, Enterprise Car Club and Flex E Rent. In 2014, she became VP of Rental for Enterprise's San Francisco Group and in 2015 she was appointed to her current position. She was a board member for the United Way of Broward County Women's Leadership Council and has sat on internal ethics and compliance committees ensuring fair practice across the business.

Louise Nisbet
Partner at Knights plc and former Chairman of Women in Property
(Thames Valley)

Louise works in commercial property and property-related aspects of corporate transactions for one of the biggest property-specific investment funds in the country. She is also a prominent member of the Thames Valley branch of Women in Property, a network that creates opportunities, expands knowledge and inspires change for women working in the property and construction industry. Louise has represented GB at the amateur World Triathlon Championships in her Age Group and completed her first marathon this year.

Fayola Jack
Deputy Director, Complex
Transactions Team and
Head of HM Government
Dispute Resolution Practice

Fay is a senior member of the Cabinet Office and of the Government Commercial senior leadership function. She provides strategic support to HM Government on its most challenging commercial deals, novel operations and projects in complex markets. Currently she is supporting key departments with the EU Exit. Previously, Fay led legal and commercial teams for global market leaders in various private sector industries including engineering and aerospace. Fay has won a number of awards for her contributions to business.