

How does Sonocent's licensing work for institutions?

Loan and Site Licences: What's the difference?

Mix and match Sonocent licences to support specific students or present a platform for all.

If you're looking to champion inclusive practice in your institution, a Site Licence for Audio Notetaker is the best for reaching the widest spectrum of students. With it, all students can download our Link app and use the software on campus computers to engage with challenging course content and adapt notes to suit their learning style.

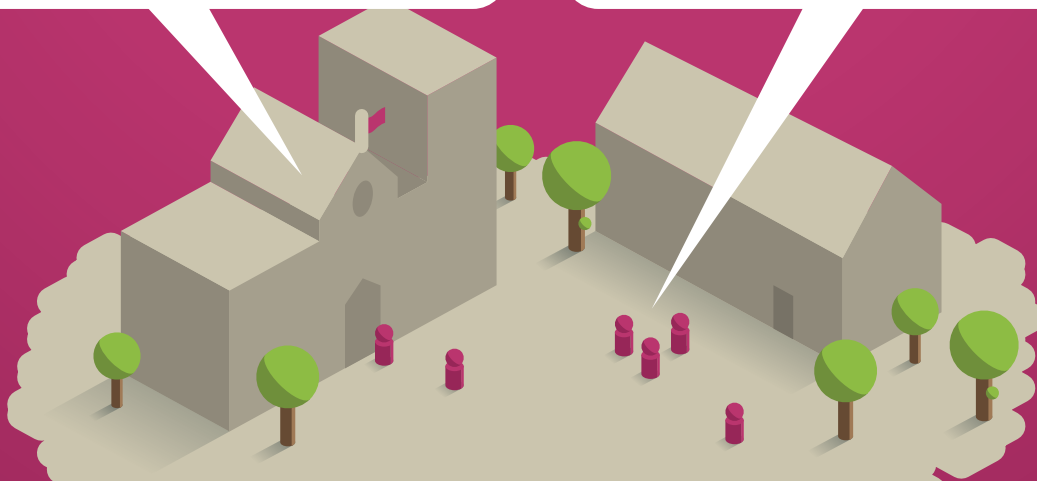

To offer additional support to students with specific needs, Loan Licences are flexible subscriptions that can be assigned and reallocated to users by you for a period of time. That way, they'll get full access to the software on their own laptop and you'll have the visibility you need to tailor your support for them.

How can Sonocent help your institution?

- Shape and promote your institution as an inclusive learning space with campus-wide access using a site licence
- Help all students study independently by providing an interactive educational tool
- Provide support for students not eligible for DSAs with a solution entirely tailored to their needs
- Easily manage the length of loans using our online Loan License Manager and reassign loans if a student isn't using it or they complete a course
- Trust Sonocent's team for support in effective implementation

How can Sonocent help students?

- Support students to take notes, compose essays, organise revision and prepare for presentations across all course types
- Give students the flexibility of using the software or our Premium Link app for on-the-go recording and annotating
- Helps students develop learning independence and multi-modal study skills
- Encourage students to get full use of Audio Notetaker's study strategies with our resource portal - no matter the licence type

"Don't the DSA provide Audio Notetaker for my students?"

Sonocent is recommended through the DSA for a variety of reasons to qualifying students. In this case, they get an individual, perpetual licence. It has the same flexibility of a loan licence but they get to keep it forever, even after they complete their education.

You don't need to provide a licence for these students, but the benefits of Audio Notetaker can be felt by all who want to study more effectively.
