HILTON AT THE AGEAS BOWL

INTERIOR DESIGNER

Falconer Chester Hall Architects

LIGHT FITTINGS SUPPLIED

the complete decorative lighting scheme

Opened in May 2015 Hilton at The Ageas Bowl is truly a landmark project. Never before has a hotel been so integrated into a cricket ground that many of its guest rooms double as hospitality boxes on match days. It also features the first restaurant bearing the nickname of cricketing legend Sir Ian 'Beefy' Botham, the first Hilton eforea spa and the largest ballroom in the region, capable of holding up to 700 people.

Created by Falconer Chester Hall Architects, the contemporary interior brings together the site's sporting background, its historic connections and the beautiful countryside that surrounds the city.

Northern Lights worked closely with the Interior Designers to develop the diverse range of fittings required for the entire hotel from the lobby, restaurant and sports bar to the conference room, spa and 174 guest rooms. From the three-ring pendants in the lobby to the bedside LED reading lights, the lighting scheme features neutral shades and subtle textures with visual interest added through hints of brass. Clean lines and a minimalist style underpin the subtle sporting references, while in the spa organic shapes and sumptuous fabrics generate a warm and relaxing atmosphere.

'It is a great pleasure to support Falconer Chester Hall Architects and Hilton Hotels on this prestigious project,' Paul Wade, Managing Director of Northern Lights said 'Our Design Team has communicated with the Interior Designers every step of the way to ensure that the fittings fully realised the design intent. The close cooperation between our in-house design and the production teams has made it possible to meet the exacting specifications.'

bespoke chandeliers featuring twisted steel branches and tear drop crystals, cluster pendants, onion-shaped pendants and metal panel wall lights

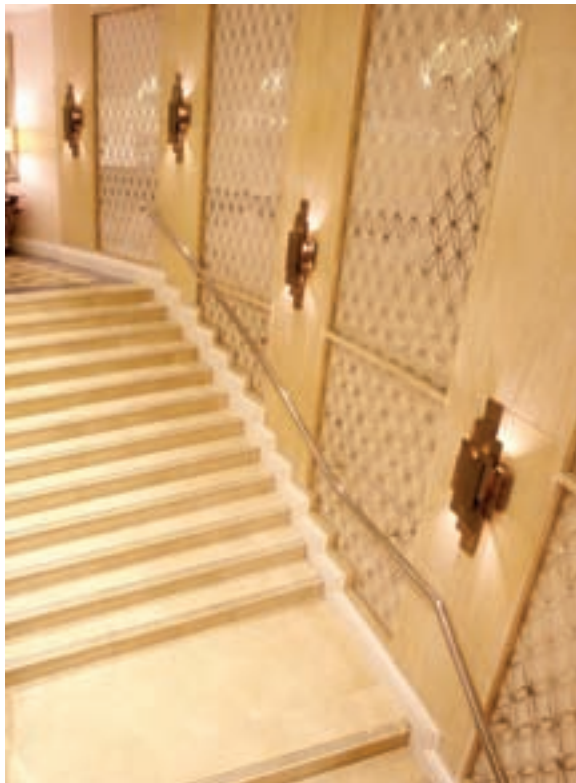

In Arabic Al Dhiyafa means 'hospitality'. Located on the lobby level of the Habtoor Grand Beach Resort & Spa, the 24 hour restaurant offers cuisine from all over the world in a contemporary and sophisticated setting. The refreshing decor blends seamlessly with the fantastic view of The Palm. A combination of luxurious chandeliers, modern pendants and quirky wall lights were specified to accentuate the eclectic flavours of the food on offer.

The main chandeliers feature twisted steel branches that resemble twigs mixed with tear drop crystal shapes. The brushed steel finish contrasts beautifully with the dazzling crystal drops.

Customers can also dine under the cluster pendants, a group of ten mild steel tubes with a powder-coated brass finish inside and out. Illuminated by 50w dichroic lamps, the pendants cast a gentle glow over the dining tables.

Adding an oriental touch, the lantern inspired pendants were made from laser-cut steel strips in a gloss bronze finish. The strips were hand-rolled to form the organic shape of the fittings.

Situated within Dubai Healthcare City, this five star hotel in Dubai is at a crossroads between the bustling downtown and the charming old city. With a botanical theme, the interior of the hotel is understated luxury.

In the lobby you will see the magnificent fibre optic chandelier, more than 3m high, made of fibre optic strands with hand-blown glass flowers in tinted pink and orange.

Customers can also work out in the gym which is lit by several rectangular bespoke chandeliers featuring rain-drop glass in a vacuum metallised chrome finish. The glass drops are suspended at various heights to give an organic and free-flowing feel.

The H Dubai – No. 1 Sheikh Zayed Road. On the same road you will find Burj Khalifa – the tallest building in the world and The Dubai Mall – the largest shopping mall in the world. At such a prestigious location, the H Dubai is anything but ordinary with its grand and glamorous interior and wonderful levels of service.

Greeting customers in the reception are three large scale ring chandeliers with metal rings in a black patinated bronze finish with contrasting crystal chains. Measuring 2.8m in diameter, the chandeliers are discreetly lit by LED strips concealed in the rolled sections of the rings. Matching crystal wall lights complete the splendid yet inviting look of the lobby. Continuing the dramatic theme, a group of giant floor lamps decorate the lobby seating area. Each floor lamp is more than 3.5m tall and completed with luxury black cotton circular shades. They form an enticing display that sets a contemporary tone.

bespoke pendants, wall lights, table and floor lamps

When InterContinental decided to build a five-star hotel at the South end of Tel Aviv's beach front, it was a brave move to be so far away from the popular northern side where most of the other luxury hotels are located.

However, 15 years later it proved to be a smart choice as the area is now the epicentre of cool. So much so that the newly refurbished top floor suites can command more than $3000 a night.

Working with ara Design, we supplied a wide range of decorative fittings for the project.

In The Tel Aviv suite – the largest of all suites at 126 sq m - cream shades were used throughout the living and bedroom areas. The two-tier metal mesh pendant over the dining table was inspired by the long sandy beach in Tel Aviv with the subtle shimmering effect adding a touch of understated luxury. The bathroom features a bespoke table lamp incorporating an etched glass base.

The Royal Suites continue the natural feel. The cream shade on the bespoke floor lamp is offset by the walnut finish of the wooden lamp base.

The bedside table lamps use an elegant ceramic curved base in a polished black finish, which provides a neat contrast to the pastel colour palette.

LIGHT FITTINGS SUPPLIED

the complete decorative lighting scheme

We have been working for a number of years with Salford-based Hydes Brewery and its appointed interior designer, Allison Pike, on updating their estate. The Abel Heywood is the latest scheme where we have supplied most of the decorative lighting. Located in the busy Northern Quarter at the heart of Manchester City Centre, the venue is a traditional pub with a 15 bedroom boutique hotel.

Based in a converted warehouse at a metropolitan location and named after the 19th century visionary Mayor of Manchester, it is certainly 'not your ordinary pub'.

In the bedrooms the wall lights use a traditional bell-shaped shade in a powder-coated chrome finish. The floor lamps feature a searchlight on top of a tripod stand, a nod to the industrial heritage of Manchester. The spun pendants complete the quirky mix resulting in a comfortable environment with a sense of both modern luxury and traditional warmth. We also re-finished the desk lamps from another supplier in brushed steel to meet the client's specification.

If the bedrooms of the Abel Heywood are quirky then the pub area is strictly classical. Richly varnished wooden panelling and faux nicotine-stained ceilings are complemented by traditional style furniture in a dark walnut finish. It is very refreshing to see a venue which exudes so many traditional features in an area so dominated by industrial aesthetics and minimalist styles.

Working with Allison Pike, we supplied a wide range of traditional style light fittings to enhance the interior.

Key features include the antique single flat head spun pendants along the bar area. The traditional 5-arm chandeliers in the main dining area feature beautifully crafted curved arms in an antique finish complete with opal glass shades. The matching single glass ball wall lights and pendants complement the rich wooden panels.

bird cage pendants, conduit ceiling lights, fabric shade wall lights and drum pendants

Boutique hotel design is all about personality and individuality. Inspired by the 19th century French château once lived in by Napoleon, the story of Malmaison is about bringing flamboyance and indulgence into the heart of British cities, offering a haven of respite from the hustle and bustle of daily life.

The hotel chain has recently gone through a complete makeover with a new interior that is luxurious, warm and comfortable. Working in close collaboration with Interior Designers from Curious and hotel procurement consultant NJW Procurement Solutions, Northern Lights was tasked with developing a range of bespoke light fittings including bird cage pendants and conduit ceiling lights.

Combining a geometric shape and exposed decorative lamps, the conduit ceiling lights inject a contemporary albeit slightly rustic element into both the brasserie and the conference room. The gentle glow from the exposed lamps creates intricate patterns on the wall, generating a sense of calm and comfort.

Specially developed for both sites, the wall lights feature a black drum shade with an opal acrylic diffuser. The metal arms were hand-finished in blackened steel to complement the exposed walls. Creating a warm ambience, these striking fittings also provide functional lighting over the dining tables.

Northern Lights also supplied the matching drum pendants.

Commenting on the projects, Alex Chivers, FF&E Procurement and Supply Chain Consultant from NJW Procurement Solutions said: 'The fittings look excellent in Malmaison Birmingham. Really well designed and executed to give a real wow factor.'

Hotel Savoy from Rocco Forte is one of the finest of all the Florence hotels located in the heart of this beautiful, historic city. The hotel has recently refurbished the complete ground floor restaurant and bar. Working with JSJ Design, we supplied a fabric pendant ceiling feature and matching wall lights to the hotel's Tuscan bistro – Irene – whose menu was created by the legendary Fulvio Pierangelini.

Comprising simple cylinder shades in yellow, grey, green and black suspended at different heights from a rectangular steel frame, the fabric pendant feature provides a fresh and sleek backdrop to the simple and authentic Tuscan classics offered by the restaurant. Illuminated by eco-filament lamps, the pendants give a warm and comforting glow. They also have a very low energy consumption.

As an experienced Mitchells & Butlers lighting supplier, we have worked with the Group and its appointed designers for many years developing lighting schemes for many of its brands including Browns, Toby Carvery, Nicholson's and All Bar One.

Located in Great Portland Street, The Albany is a busy venue for both tourists and corporate guests. For its 2015 refurbishment designed by Pembrook Design, we supplied the complete decorative lighting scheme.

Along the bar we supplied five pendants with ribbed glass shades and metal chains in an antique finish. Unusually, but very effectively, the interior designer used wall lights in various styles instead of traditional picture lights to highlight the artwork on the walls. The cage wall lights in an antique finish feature filament lamps and generate a soft and concentrated illumination.

Another wall light features clear glass lanterns with metal trim in a brass finish.

We also organised the procurement and delivery of fittings from other suppliers including the 8-light smoked glass chandeliers. This enabled the designer to focus on the creative side of the project with the knowledge that the fittings would all be delivered as and when required.

Working with Parkbench London, we supplied a wide range of decorative fittings to The Volunteer.

Responding to an outline brief from the interior designers, we developed detailed drawings for an eclectic collection of bespoke fittings, proposing materials, finishes and installation methods to realise the design intent. The fittings play an important role in enhancing the traditional pub aesthetic as well as adding contemporary touches. Key features include a reclaimed timber pendant with Kilner jars and Art Deco style pendants with ribbed glass panels.

All bespoke fittings were manufactured in the Northern Lights' factory. We also organised the procurement and delivery of fittings from other suppliers. This removed all the concerns regarding technical and supply chain issues, meaning that interior designers can concentrate on the creative side of the project.

LIGHT FITTINGS SUPPLIED

11.5m long lighting sculptures

Jointly designed by The Harris Partnership and BDP Lighting and manufactured by Northern Lights, these breathtaking lighting sculptures take centre stage in the newly refurbished Park Lane area of Meadowhall Shopping Centre – one of only six super-regional shopping malls in the country.

Taking on the task of transforming Park Lane into a premier shopping area, the interior designer wanted a group of large-scale lighting features for the foyer spaces. The major requirements in the design brief were: firstly, the feature needed to connect the upper and lower shopping areas and secondly, it needed to deliver a genuine 'Wow' factor. After considering various options, the final design brief called for a series of mass installations of delicate abstract shaped suspensions. Northern Lights was given the job to bring the idea to life.

Working through the inspirational images from the Interior Designer, our Designers then developed a template for the abstract shapes. A mixture of polished stainless steel, clear acrylic and frosted acrylic materials were selected to add depth. Each shape was then precision cut with a laser to achieve the abstract geometric forms. More than 14,000 shapes in total were suspended on ultra-thin wires which were further enhanced by 21,000 clear crystals.

Eight sculptures were installed in the main hall with another one at the mall entrance. Each installation rains down from the glass roof, which from a distance makes them look like lighting blocks with intricate details. Closer up the leaves appear to be floating, lighter than air. This brings an elevating yet calming effect to the space.

Since the refurbishment, the re-designed Park Lane area has attracted many aspirational lifestyle brands including The White Company, Jigsaw and White Stuff.

clear glass ball pendants, metal box pendants and track lighting system

Located in a place steeped in Leeds' history, Lambert's Yard is a concept store, a creative event space and an incubator of talent. With brands such as Subversive Store, Antipodium, Murdock London and Number 35 as well as an array of events, the ambition is to make Leeds the Northern creative hub to rival London.

Renowned Art Director and Interior Designer Johnny Button worked with Holdsworth Design Practice to transform the historical building into a neutral, airy and beautiful place. The interior design team turned to Northern Lights to supply a range of bespoke pendants and the track lighting system.

One of the key lighting features is the clear glass pendant. The elegant blown glass globe highlights the filament lamp, delivering a gentle and warm glow. The light is soft but at just the right level to give visitors comfortable and unobstructed access.

A track lighting system with LED spotlights was installed in the retail area to highlight the fascinating and eclectic assembly of products in the building. The clean and simple lines of the track system are a nice contrast to the rich original features.

There is an event space on the second floor with metal box pendants in the bar area. With a black outer and contrasting golden inner, the pendants are a vibrant addition to the interior.

Unlike many other Northern Lights' projects, there isn't a single show-stopping large-scale feature in Lambert's Yard. The appeal of the lighting scheme comes from the sophisticated and subtle combination of a sense of history and a taste of modern quirkiness. A very charming, delightful and memorable place.

triple pendants with wire frames, pleated drum pendants with glass balls, cage pendants with glass balls, tripod floor lamps and mirror lights

Recently we have seen an increased use of bespoke lighting features in cinemas. More and more interior designers have discovered that an individually designed light fitting can create a memorable centrepiece to any design scheme.

In the Gallery ODEON Cinema Milton Keynes, the interior designers from Bignell Shacklady Ewing were really bold, mixing different materials and colours to create a bright and dynamic environment. They approached Northern Lights to produce something that would have the effect they were looking for.

The delightful triple pendants feature double fabric shades with a single glass ball in a polished chrome finish, all installed in a circular cage. In the other seating areas, the opulent purple pleated drum pendants were enhanced by glass balls in various finishes. The industrial edge of the cage pendants is softened by the tinted purple glass balls inside. This creates a subtle connection between the different zones.

Northern Lights also supplied tripod floor lamps and mirror lights to the venue.

Sukhothai is the capital of the old Kingdom of Thai. It also means 'Dawn of Happiness' in the Thai language. There is probably no better name for this new Thai restaurant chain which serves mouth-watering authentic Thai food created by the famous chef Ban Kaewkraikhot.

Northern Lights worked with Holdsworth Design Practice on both the Leeds and Harrogate projects. In Harrogate the challenge was to create a place fused with Thai flavour that would easily blend into the traditional surroundings of this quintessentially English town.

The interior designers developed a balanced and sophisticated interior using both contemporary elements and symbolic Thai details. The lighting echoes this design approach with modern chandeliers and pendants enhanced by subtle oriental references.

Featuring shades inspired by oriental lanterns, the pendant system comprises a central drum shade with clear glass balls and a group of cylinder shades in various sizes. All pendants feature a honey silk inner shade with a black voile outer shade. The more contemporary glass ball chandeliers add sparkle to the interior. In a carefully selected range of finishes from clear, chrome and tinted amber to grey and black, the chandeliers offset the more earthy tones of the furniture. All glass balls were hand-finished by our skilled glass workers to match the client's specification.

two-tier textured glass panel chandeliers, conduit style twin table lamps with ribbed glass globes and industrial style wall lights

Wildwood Kitchen, owned by Tasty Group, is a fast-growing family-friendly restaurant chain across the South and East of England.

The concept is to use fresh ingredients serving home-made Mediterranean food. The menu also includes a selection of seasonal specials.

The Wantage site features a deli counter at the front and a 40-seat cinema on the first floor. The interior designers from Design Command used a range of materials and finishes to create an open, warm and inviting space.

Guests are welcomed into the restaurant by two giant two-tier textured glass panel chandeliers. At 1.5m tall, each chandelier features more than 70 panels illuminated by exposed filament lamps. The yellow lamp cages are suspended from the top wire mesh by black braided flex. All metalwork has a blackened patina finish.

Working with The Lighting House, we also supplied the double ribbed glass ball table lamps and blackened steel spun shade wall lights in the seating areas.

Established in 1989 and loved by Bridget Jones in the 1990s, Café Rouge is one of the most recognisable French bistro chains in the UK. Since 2014 the brand has been undergoing a re-branding process with new décor and new menus. The Design Consultancy Keane Brands worked closely with the Group to develop the new interior which injects more glamour and romance into the restaurants, whilst remaining loyal to the classic French charm which has always been the brand's trademark.

The interior designer appointed Northern Lights to be the major decorative lighting supplier for the refurbishment programme. Timescales are tight on the projects so much preparation is necessary.

From the elegant chandeliers with scalloped shades to the wall lights using motorbike helmets, we supplied a diverse range of fittings to meet the eclectic requirements of the interior designers.

We also modified both decorative and architectural fittings from other lighting suppliers to suit the scheme.

For a complex roll-out programme such as this, a one-stop shop approach removed any concerns regarding technical and supply chain issues, meaning the designers could focus on the creative side of the project.

Bella Italia is one of the nation's best-loved Italian casual dining chains serving authentic Italian food in a modern family-friendly environment. Northern Lights has worked with the Group's appointed interior designers for a number of years as the group moves to a more contemporary brand positioning. On many sites lighting was one of the key elements used to inject fun twists into the interior.

Situated within a new leisure complex, Bella Italia Hemel Hempstead boasts 220 covers and is one of the largest sites on the estate. The interior developed by Harrison Design is stylish and bright with hints of rustic authenticity.

One of the key lighting features is the bespoke pendants using kitchen utensils. One pendant was made of five retro style kettles and four baking trays refinished in red, green and white. We also modified the kettles and baking trays so that low energy lamps could be installed. In the other seating area, a similar pendant was created with real sieves. In the Nottingham restaurant designed by Keane Brands the cheese grater wall lights bring a little fun into the venue. The quirky fittings make a loud statement about the Italian cooking tradition and are a funky feature which has become a conversation piece amongst customers.

Northern Lights also organised the procurement and delivery of fittings from other suppliers. This enabled the designers to focus on the creative side of the project with the knowledge that the fittings would all be delivered as and when required.

NATALIE SHAKESHEFF

Senior Lighting Designer

WHAT ARE YOUR FAVOURITE FITTINGS?

I like our industrial style pendants and caged exposed lamps on coloured and braided flex. I think they are a simple way of creating interest in a lighting scheme.

ALLAN TERRY

Lighting Designer

WHAT ARE YOUR FAVOURITE FITTINGS?

I don't have a specific favourite light fitting, but I like the large scale sculptural pieces we provide. Knowing the level of engineering and man hours put into each piece shows the creative level we're able to achieve. These large scale pieces are visually impressive and trendy

LEE GRIEVE

WHAT ARE YOUR FAVOURITE FITTINGS?

I personally like retro looking industrial fittings. Living in Sheffield makes me really appreciate that industrial heritage 'look'. I think the layout of the lighting is just as important as the fittings too. This is what makes me look up and really take note.
