After enjoying considerable growth in Central Europe, flibco.com is continuing to expand its network throughout Europe and will be inaugurating three new lines on the island of Cyprus, in the Mediterranean Sea. flibco.com operates now from and to the international airports of Paphos and Larnaca.

Following the recent inauguration of its new lines in Germany, the 100% Luxemburg Company is now expanding into southern Europe, more precisely on the island of Cyprus. It will operate to and from the international airports of Paphos, in the southeastern corner of the island, and Larnaca in central Cyprus. flibco.com will operate three new lines, connecting Larnaca to Nicosia, the capital, as well as Paphos to Nicosia and Larnaca to Paphos.

The opening of these three lines is a major step in the development of flibco.com abroad. flibco.com is now offering the possibility to its existing, as well as new customers, to use its services not only to go to their departure points (airports already covered) but also to their destinations (new covered airports like Larnaca, Paphos). In the near future, flibco.com plans to continue this policy of extension to more and more countries.
