Retraction: Jawbone metastases: four cases

N. Papadopoulos

A paper that very closely resembled the article “Jawbone metastases: four cases” by D. Tamiolakis, I. Tsamis, V. Thomaidis, M. Lambropoulou, G. Alexiadis, I. Venizelos, T. Jivanakis, and N. Papadopoulos published in this journal in 2007 (1) was published in Chirurgia (Bucur) in 2007 (2).

As corresponding author, I would like to inform the editorial staff and readers of Acta Dermatovenerologica Alpina, Pannonica et Adriatica that, for an inexplicable reason that is devoid of any logic, our ex-colleague and coauthor D. Tamiolakis took the liberty of submitting the paper published in this journal in 2007 (1) for publication in another journal (2) after having changed the title and the abstract. None of the other coauthors, including myself, had any knowledge of this infringement of copyright.

Furthermore, I would like to inform the editorial staff and readers that D. Tamiolakis, in an attempt to mitigate his misdeed, forged my name as corresponding author without my knowledge and consent. D. Tamiolakis has acknowledged total responsibility for his own actions.

For these reasons, I retract the paper entitled “Jawbone metastases: four cases.”

REFERENCES

AUTHORS' ADDRESSES Nikolaos Papadopoulos, MD, Professor of Histology and Embryology, Democritus University of Thrace, Dragana, 68 100 Alexandroupolis, Greece, corresponding author, E-mail: npapad@med.duth.gr