ARTISTS WITHOUT BORDERS

Festival 08 was an artistic, critical and financial success. Jonathan Mills’s second Festival as Director had a central theme of ‘Artists without Borders’ inspired by the artistic and cultural resonances stemming from the expanded and contested boundaries of Europe and further afield.

Artists from Poland, Hungary, Romania, Bosnia and Georgia were juxtaposed with work from Lebanon, Turkey, the Palestinian Territories, Israel and Iran, all places with particular challenges on their own borders. Music from orthodox Christian traditions was presented alongside devotional masterpieces from Islam. The rich traditions of gypsy music, a source of inspiration to composers from Brahms to Bartok, were also heard rejecting the idea of borders of any kind altogether.

A SUCCESSFUL YEAR

In 2008 the Festival achieved its highest ever box office sales, £2.63m – 7% up on the previous year. 2008 also saw substantial increases in the number of tickets sold to young people and students as well as encouraging increases in international audiences.

Growth in earned income from foreign governments and from trusts and foundations contributed to 5% more in fundraising income in 2008 compared to 2007.

None of this success would have been possible without the stabilisation of the Festival’s public sector grants which, at £4.7 million, were at the level established in the Festival’s business plans from 2005 onwards as necessary to deliver a full programme in all of its venues.

FESTIVAL FUNDING

The Festival is a registered charity, and aims to break even each year. Approximately 48% (£4.3 million) of its income in 2008 came from ticket sales, sponsorship and donations and other earned income, and 52% (£4.7 million) came from grants from the City of Edinburgh Council and the Scottish Arts Council.

The total budget of the 2008 Festival was approximately £9 million.
73% (£6.6 million) putting events onto the stage
16% (£1.4 million) marketing, selling tickets and fundraising
11% (£1 million) fixed costs, IT and administration

‘When did the International Festival get edgier than the Fringe?’
Metro

‘This is the unmissable one where the cream of the classical music world comes to town.’ The Sunday Times

‘The jewel in the festival crown is the Edinburgh International Festival – not only one of the most hotly anticipated musical dates on the Scottish summer calendar, but a must-see highlight for the whole UK cultural year.’ Classical Music

‘...inventive and boundary-pushing, exhilarating, challenging, mind-expanding stuff.’
