BACKGROUND

Originally a working mill, the building was extensively redeveloped into office space, with all original cut-stone façades carefully preserved and a three-storey extension added above.

Located in the heart of one of Dublin city centre's most historic quarters, the area continues to evolve, with significant investment in nearby regeneration projects including the pedestrianisation of Capel Street, various new hotel developments in the area and the transformation of the Victorian Fruit & Vegetable Market which is currently underway.

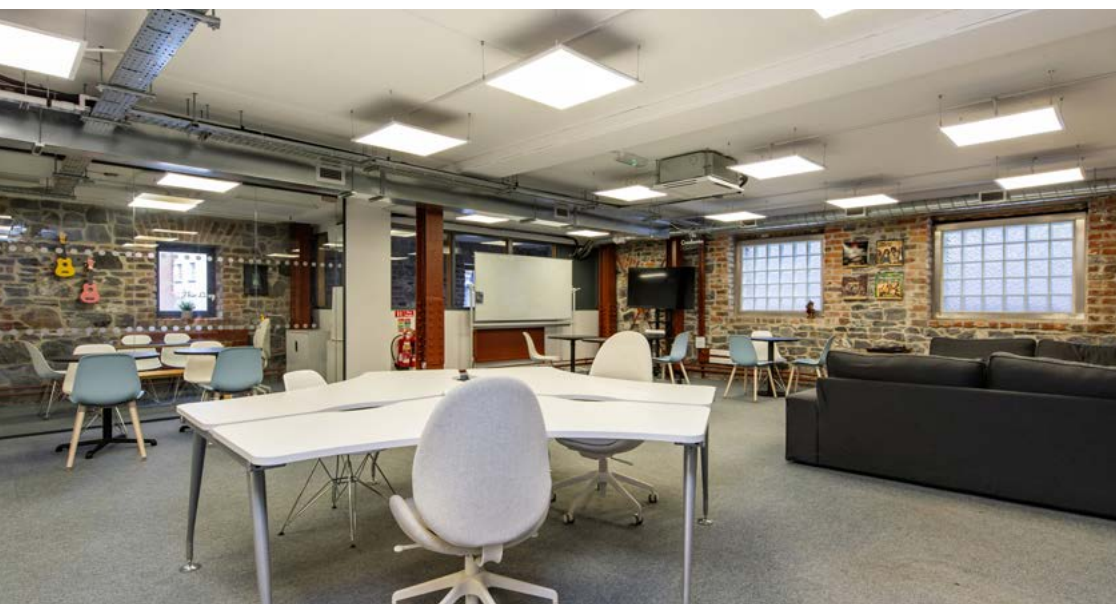

ABOUT ANGLESEA MILLS

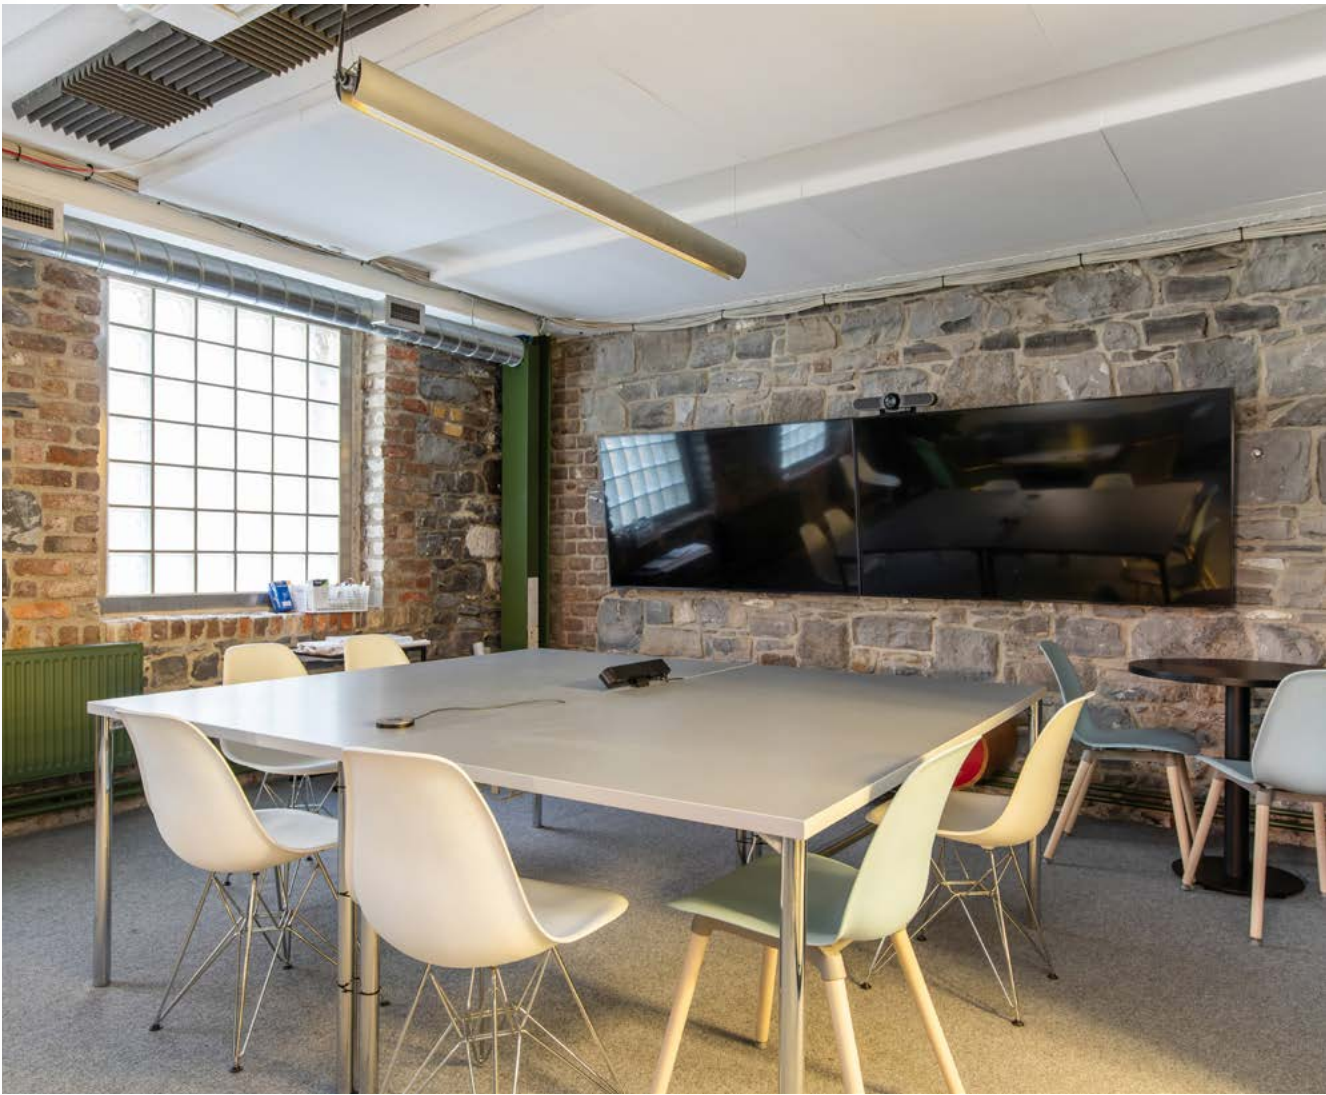

Anglesea Mills comprises a six-storey over basement, old mill converted to office use tending to of approx. 13,602 sq.ft NIA. The office space displays a modern and efficient open plan design, enhanced by a mixture of exposed brick walls, steel beams and plaster finish.

The building is equipped with perimeter trunking wired for power and data cabling, an AC system and Suspended LED lighting to ensure a comfortable working environment.

There is also a dedicated comms room and a cleaners' store. The entrance lobby includes a seating area, secure post facilities and a provision for tenant signage. End of trip facilities include bike parking and shower facilities.
