Flexible hot desking and private office subletting opportunity in Edinburgh City Centre

Key Points

- Central office location

- Private office space and hot desking

- Use of large training room

- Castle views and excellent natural daylight

- Strong public transport links

Description

132 Rose Street offers a rare opportunity to occupy high-quality workspace in one of Edinburgh's sought-after city centre locations.

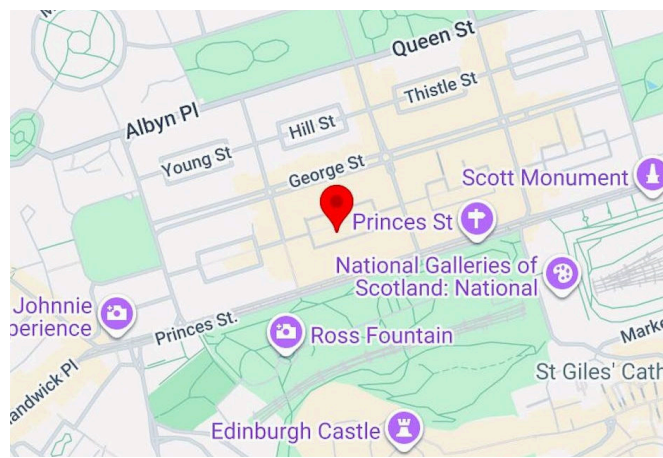

Home to Scottish Women's Aid and a small number of co-locating organisations, the office provides a professional, welcoming and collaborative working environment with excellent shared facilities and outstanding transport connections.

The accommodation benefits from abundant natural daylight, views towards Edinburgh Castle and access to meeting and training facilities.

The opportunity for a flexible sublet of a small office or hot desking has become available, ideal for small companies looking for accommodation or satellite office space within Edinburgh city centre.

Location

Rose street is a popular office location situated in the heart of Edinburgh's City Centre. Surrounded by local amenities including shops, cafes, restaurant and bars, making it an attractive spot for businesses to locate. The office also benefits from superb connectivity. Approximately 10 minutes' walk from Edinburgh Waverley Station and 15 minutes from Haymarket Station, with good connections via bus routes and the Edinburgh Tram line.
