LOCATION

The subjects are situated on Old Burdiehouse Road, located in the Burdiehouse area in the south of Edinburgh. The property benefits from good accessibility to the wider Edinburgh road network, with Straiton Retail Park and the City Bypass (A720) situated in close proximity, providing easy access to all parts of the city and beyond. Lothian Bus routes provide regular services along the corridor, connecting the area to Edinburgh city centre and the wider suburban network.

The subjects are located approximately 5 miles south of Edinburgh city centre, within an established area that benefits from a mix of residential housing and local commercial uses. The property itself comprises a car garage premises, yard and office space.

More specifically, the A720 City Bypass provides direct connectivity to the M8, M9 and the wider central Scotland motorway network, making the location particularly attractive for occupiers with distribution or transport requirements. Straiton Retail Park, one of Edinburgh's busiest out-of-town retail destinations, sits in close proximity and generates considerable levels of passing vehicular trade along the corridor.

DESCRIPTION

The subjects comprise a brick constructed, semi-detached car garage, surmounted by a flat roof. The premises is accessed via a timber pedestrian access door to the front, leading into the mechanical workshop. Further access is achieved via 2. car loading doors (3.12m high). The recently refurbished office section is also of brick construction, incorporating a black external cladding, with access being achieved via aluminium frame pedestrian access doors.

Internally, the car garage is arranged to provide a purpose-built mechanical workshop, including rear storage and communal WCs. The workshop includes 2. repair pits, ready for use, with 6. dedicated external car spaces directly to the front. Lighting is achieved via fluorescent strip lights throughout the garage, with lighting to the office area being afforded via LED spotlights.

The site benefits from a large, secure recently resurfaced tarmac yard, incorporating a further circa 25 car parking spaces, suitable for a variety of uses, potentially including car sales.

The property as a whole presents as a well-appointed and fully operational motor trade premises, offering an incoming occupier the rare opportunity to acquire a ready-to-trade facility with minimal capital expenditure required. The combination of a functional workshop, refurbished office accommodation and substantial on-site parking provision makes the subjects particularly well suited to a range of automotive related uses, including mechanical servicing and repair, MOT testing and car sales operations, subject to any necessary consents.
