Location

Digbeth is ever evolving. Situated to the east of the second city, old industrial sprawl and the winding canal network provide the perfect, rich backdrop for big ambitions. This is truly an area to make your business stand out. What was once Birmingham's industrial heartland has been transformed into a thriving, creative community with plans afoot for new public plazas alongside state-of-the-art residential, commercial and leisure spaces to inspire a new generation.

Digbeth is undergoing radical regeneration thanks to new infrastructure projects such as HS2 and the Midlands Metro extension. Proposed new commercial and residential developments will put Digbeth at the heart of Birmingham's new travel links - all ready for a new swathe of residents to enjoy Digbeth's unique atmosphere. With over 7,000 units now enjoying planning consent, there's never been a better time to choose Digbeth.

Description

It all started with Alfred Bird inventing his world famous Bird's instant Custard right here in B9. Carrying on this trend (and also created from a secret recipe), The Custard Factory today hosts fairs, festivals and gigs plus corporate and private events.

Throw a stick in Digbeth and you're nailed on to hit an independent store, place to eat or thriving indie business. Pop into The Framers for, wait for it, fabulous picture frames. Or call in at Ridding & Wynn - purveyors of finery and curiosities. Baked in Brick serves award winning pizza and Chance Encounters mixes board games with great food. Digbeth Dining Club needs no explanation. Ghetto Golf is an inspired, urban take on golf. Oh - and that's not even the half of it. Come, stroll, lose yourself.

Home to tech companies, media agencies, makers, and creators. Data centres, film production companies, broadcast studios and post-production spaces.
