H24 A manifesto series of 24 episodes (2'30)

23 000 respirations, 86 400 seconds, 100,000 heartbeats. So what's a woman's day made of? The « H24 » manifesto series offers you the opportunity to live 24 hours under the skin of a woman. Through 24 short stories inspired by tragic or ordinary news item, this feminist series punches in to make visible what women experience on a daily basis.

24 NEW ITEMS

The episodes of the series are each inspired by a significant and emblematic moment, taken from a recent news items and starring anonymous women. Acts of resistance, heroic moments, ordinary incidents or endemic violence? 24 ways of evoking women's daily lives through the prism of real-life stories. Strong testimonies that call for insubordination and freedom.

24 HOURS

It's time for one day. The 24 hours of a woman's life. It's also being sent back to her 24 hours womanhood, everywhere, all the time. From 7 a.m. until the next day, the series will situate each episode at a precise time, inviting the spectator to go around the dial in her company. A temporality played and affirmed at the beginning of the film, each hour corresponding to that of the transposed news item and sounding the start of a new story. The whole series will thus show the plurality of experiences that go through the daily life of women.

24 AUTHORS

We will propose to 24 European women writers to adapt one of these stories. They will write a short first-person story in the form of a monologue. A way of interpreting and scripting an event, of moving it from the "news item" to the allegorical register. Each person will bring their own personal style to this adaptation. A metatheater (the rewriting) at the same time as a reappropriation (the use of the "I") that blurs the lines between fiction and documentary, and brings out the universal from the singular. On this basis and strength of these 24 original narrative proposals, H24 will give voice to a diversity of voices and talents, brought together for the first time in the same strong and committed European series.

24 ACTRESSES

All of diverse origins and generations, they will come to incarnate and interpret each texts with their own personality. Staged in a unique natural setting, emblematic of the various events experienced, the actress will carry the text alone in this space, with no secondary character to whom to give the reply. Filmed cinematographically, she will turn her text into an artistic performance. Whether it is a moving sequence shot or a very cut-out production, the staging will be adapted to each fact and place in order to put the presence and the words of the actress at the heart of the performance. If the main location is thought to be empty, extras may nevertheless intervene in secondary sequences: dreams, flashbacks, evocations... may serve the needs of the story. All the actresses chosen, in their diversity, are also women who are personally involved in feminist causes. They will lend their voices here to all these anonymous people.

24 LOCATIONS

The locations will be chosen in relation to the unfolding of the news items and staged in a resolutely cinematographic and contemporary way. Two pictorial references quickly come to mind: Edward Hopper's paintings and Gregory Crewdson's photographs where the immobility of the landscapes contributes to the evocative power of the characters represented.

24 suspended moments, where nothing moves and everything changes dramatically.

This complex work of light will be entrusted to a cinematographer used to work on feature films. H24 or the colourful and contrasting chronicle of a woman's life in the city.

PLURALIST DIRECTORS

European women directors will be invited to participate in the series. Chosen for their feminist convictions, they will bring their unique vision. Each episode will therefore have a specific style and staging, adapted to the news item itself and the location. The director will have to take up the story proposed by the writer, with her own cinematic language. And this, while respecting the rules of the dogma common to the series: a single location, a precise time to stage, a duration not to be exceeded, the principle of cinematography to respect, the shooting time... A way of giving each filmmaker her freedom of artistic creation, while giving the whole series a strong and identifiable unity: this is not an exercise in style or a competition of memes, but rather a way of bringing together all the diversity of these creators in the service of a common cause.

H24 assumes its status of a manifesto series, engaged in a collective struggle.

A COMMON DOGMA

Writing and directing will be subject to a common dogma. In order to bring unity and coherence to the series. In this sense, credits and soundtrack will also be common to all episodes. As far as the credits are concerned, its graphic creation will play on the theme of the 24 hours, and will allow each story to start at a specific time. Likewise, the soundtrack will be signed by a single composer, each episode being nevertheless treated in a specific way.

A PITCH IN THE FORM OF A MANIFESTO

As the #Metoo movement continues to highlight the difficult place of women in our society, particularly in the field of arts and entertainment, we believe that the time has come to bring together actresses, producers, writers and directors to move these lines. Recently, Adèle Haenel's testimony and position paper confirmed that it is urgent to take hold of this reality that affects too many women. H24 responds to this desire to give visibility to all these unknown women who live this violence, sometimes daily, or who suffer inequalities linked to their gender.

Recently, a new algorithm from Google has calculated that women are almost half as represented on screens: blockbusters or cartoons, their speaking time occupies only a quarter of the dialogue... We are waiting for other perspectives for us and for our children, a more serene and equal future.

Stories of resistance and resilience, visibility and courage, H24 will strike hearts and minds: quality of writing and interpretation, short, contemporary, punchy and incisive format, these 24 film punchlines will send shock waves!

Conception, direction, interpretation, production: H24 is a 100% feminine and feminist series, which is obviously aimed at 100% of the population.

Daughter of an Estonian mother and a Finnish father, Sofi Oksanen grew up in the time of the Soviet Union. In 2010, the release of her novel Purge propelled her onto the international literary scene. A true global bestseller, the book has won numerous awards, including « he Prix Femina étranger ». In the course of her books, violence towards bodies has become a real obsessive leitmotiv: Baby Jane evokes domestic violence in lesbian couples, while Norma highlights the exploitation of women's bodies. Now the muse of Finnish letters, Sofi Oksanen is not ashamed of anything and continues to assume herself, half-Amazone, half gothic divinity, pink dread-locks and mouth with a purple blush: "WHAT ATTRACTS ME BEFORE EVERYTHING, ARE THE SILENCED DESTINIES, THE MUFFLED PEOPLE, THE UNSPEAKEN STORIES".

Lydie Salvayre, winner of the Prix Goncourt 2014 for her novel Pas pleurer, is a « grande dame » of French literature. Born of a Spanish republican couple exiled in the South of France at the end of the Civil War, she first pursued a career as a psychiatrist before going into literature.

For nearly 30 years, she has been building a body of work studded with strong and sensitive books, attempting to describe the social reality of our world. Her rough style, often mixed with Spanish, rejuvenates the language and lends itself particularly well to theatrical adaptation.

She says of herself that she has been shaped by a sense of social class and that she is unable to forget the sense of shame that accompanied her disinherited childhood.

Actress, dancer, circus performer, musician... this 20-year-old boxer is as brilliant in her film roles (120 beats per minute, Les fauves, Hors normes...) as she is in her musical hits. Her latest album, Dévorantes, is a real punch. Nominated at the last "Victoires de la Musique" Awards, she is considered by the critics as the most complete and creative artist of recent times.

Nina Bouraoui wrote about her : " ALOISE GOES FAST, FASTER THAN LOVE, FASTER THAN ECSTASY, FASTER THAN COLLAPSE, FASTER THAN METAMORPHOSIS. HER MOVEMENT IS A SPIRAL AND HER NATURE IS SENSUAL."

13:00 LIP GLOSS by KERRY HUDSON (G.B.)

She's waiting for the bus near her house. She has just turned thirteen and her body is disrupted by hormones : growing tits, extroverted character, desire to seduce... It doesn't take much more than that for everyone at school to call her a « whore ». Hurt by these words, she tells her mother who doesn't see where the problem is. As she adds more gloss on her lips before the bus arrives, her mother comes out of the house to tell her that she deserved to be called a whore!

Kerry Hudson was born in Scotland in 1980. Her first novel, Tony Hogan bought me an ice-cream before stealing my mummy, tells the story of the succession of housing estates and campsites in which she grew up. Without self-pity, the theme of poverty haunts Kerry Hudson's work, making her the new novelist of the British proletariat.

After winning the Femina Foreign Novel Prize in 2015 for her second novel The Colour of Water, Kerry Hudson published her autobiography Low Birth in 2020. In it, she reveals the brutality and destitution in which she has lived since her birth:

« 1 SINGLE MOTHER, 2 FOSTER HOMES, 9 PRIMARY SCHOOLS, 1 CHILD PROTECTION INVESTIGATION FOR SEXUAL ABUSE, 5 HIGH SCHOOLS, 2 SEXUAL ASSAULTS, 1 RAPE, 2 ABORTIONS. »

14:00 I WILL BE QUEEN by LOLA LAFON (FR.)

She just missed the final selection round for the ice dance championships. An unexpected fall on a figure she has already mastered. She's a tiny girl on the edge of the dance floor, overly dressed in her tight outfit, she's 14 years old. She is in no hurry to go back on the locker room, to hear the coach's insults, to feel his hands on her body. She hopes that all this will stop soon, that everything will be forgotten, that one day, in front of her ice cream, she will be beautiful again.

Lola Lafon is a committed woman. Raised in a communist family, she became involved in various antifascist and feminist collectives at an early age. Since then, all her novels seem to be the culmination of this long ideological journey. Noticed and multi-prized for her novel La Petite Communiste qui ne souriait jamais, retracing the career of the gymnast Nadia Comaneci, she draws inspiration from the Patti Hearst affair in her latest work, Mercy, Mary, Patti, and gives us her thoughts on female identity.

"FEMINISM IS A HUMANISM. IT'S CRAZY THAT IT STILL CAUSES SUCH FEARS. IT IS STILL THE ONLY REVOLUTION THAT HASN'T KILLED ANYONE." She is currently preparing the release of her next novel, due out in September 2020.

15:00 HONEST AND HONORABLE by KAOUTHER ADIMI (ALG.)

She goes home when she hears grunts and sexually suggestive noises on her back. Tired, she decides to react and says, « Shut up! ». Siri Hustvedt grew up in a Norwegian family in Minnesota. For a long time seen as "Paul Auster's wife", she had to wait until 2003 to gain recognition with What I loved, a novel full of art, friendship and psychoanalysis. Since then, the writer has not stopped drawing on her knowledge of neuroscience as well as on her own experience. Her latest essay, awarded by the European Charles Veillon Prize in 2019, A Woman Looking at Men Looking at Women, explores the place of women in the unconscious, art and literature. "IT TOOK ME A LONG TIME TO STOP THINKING LIKE A MAN. BUT TODAY I HAVE NO TROUBLE CALLING MYSELF A WRITER AND A FEMINIST." For Siri Hustvedt, #MeToo reveals above all the humiliation that many women experience on a daily basis. And so much the worse if sometimes they seem to over-react: it is at this price that the world can progress!

Writer, journalist, blogger, Nadia Busato is a sensitive and magnetic author. In 2018, she publishes a novel Non sarò mai la brava moglie di nessuno, the social and painful portrait of Evelyn McHall, the woman who threw herself from the top of the Empire State Building in America during the Great Depression. Kaleidoscopic and masterful.

Alongside her work as a writer, Nadia Busato collaborates with many magazines and imagines for the monthly magazine Grazia a playful column on love entitled "The sex in happy hour". She is also involved in the fight for violence against women and patiently collects stories of intimidation and harassment on the Internet. For this, she received the EWMD Award for her commitment to women. For her, "THE WAR BETWEEN SEXES IS THE ONLY WAR THAT HAS NEVER ENDED IN THE 20th CENTURY".

Flemish, Lize Spit studied cinema before she started writing. Het Smelt, her first novel, a real thunderbolt in the Belgian and Dutch literary landscape, was a real success in bookshops (already translated into 9 languages) and won her numerous literary prizes in the Netherlands and Belgium. An incredibly cruel fable about friendship and adolescence, Het Smelt features Eva and her two friends, their alcohol-soaked proletarian parents full of anxiolytics, and above all the perverse porn game that the trio sets up with the other girls in the village. To the point of nausea. The detached tone of Lize Spit's novel, its icy cynicism, gives it a suffocating realism: "WE CAN TALK ABOUT A TRAUMA TO THE MULTIFUL WOMAN."

This bunch of journalists was making fun of her because of that: she was « their whore ».

BASED ON A NEWS ITEM PUBLISHED THE 15/02/2010 @MARIE CLAIRE

Belgian, journalist by training, Myriam Leroy finds recognition as a writer with Ariane and Les Yeux rouges. This second novel is strongly inspired by her own experience of harassment on social networks, following one of her columns on Canal+ devoted to Dieudonné.

"THIS DARK CLOUD THAT CHASES US CAN DRIVE THE VICTIM, THE TARGET, TO MADNESS".

The 10,000 Internet users who violently attacked her on the Internet did not succeed in destroying her calm and humorous tone. On the contrary! Resolutely, she decided to continue her fight against sexism and patriarchy.

H24 la société de production - Les Batelières Production

The Batelières Productions was born after the meeting of Justine Henochsberg and Julie Guesnon Amarante. Trained lawyer, Justine worked at the Cinémathèque Française as an administrator where she has produced among others Lucinda Childs by Patrick Bensard (Arte), So Far so Goude by Jean-Paul Goude, Israel Galvan - Du risque et du rythme by Georges Didi- Huberman. She was later responsible for the development of a novel concept of children's film clubs, The Magic Lantern, for the independent group of theatre, « Etoile Cinémas ». After l'ESJ (school of journalism) and a DEA of « cinema and anthropology », Julie directed the productions for over eight years at La Générale de Production. She has, among other things, been an executive producer on Le Président by Yves Jeuland (released in December 2010), and on multiple documentaries broadcast on Arte, France Télévisions or sold abroad.

Film and audiovisual production company, created at the end of 2013, The Batelières Productions has an editorial line that is built around social, political, cultural projects and also projects for the young audience.
