

Incontinence Buying Guide

We understand that if you suffer from incontinence you're constantly aware of your surroundings and the accessibility of a toilet, with incontinence products top of your shopping list. CareCo stock a wide variety of items that can help prevent accidents and embarrassment – just ask yourself the following questions to find the best care for you.

What type of Incontinence Pads are there to choose from?

Incontinence pads are needed by a whole range of people, so are available in a variety of different designs, sizes, shapes and absorbency rates.

Whether you're looking for underwear pads, pants or bed protection, we're sure to have something suitable for your needs.

We also stock an assortment of larger, stretching pads, great for keeping you comfortable and dry all day long.

We also stock smaller sizes ideal for children and young adults.

What do I need to consider when purchasing Incontinence Pads?

The two main areas you need to consider when making a purchase is the size you require and the level of absorbency. Each product we stock will come with its size and absorbency measurement – the higher the number the higher the rating.

This will also be accompanied by whether the product is intended for male or female use – men tend to use pull-up underwear while women use pads. Carefully consider your needs to ensure you're getting the best products available.

What other things should I consider when making my purchase?

You'll also want to consider how many individual pieces you'll need. For example, pads tend to come in packs, which can be sold by the case.

Do you need to use a pad on a regular basis? If so, you may be better off buying in bulk, saving you money in the long run. This could be a more cost effective solution to your problem.

You may also want to consider investing in bed/chair protection such as pads and wipe-clean pillows, or a commode chair to ease the anxiety surrounding getting to the toilet in time.

What else might I need?

Alongside general bathroom aids you may also want to consider accessories that you can use to improve your movements around the bathroom. We stock a wide variety of grab rails and handles that can be moved around the room to give you peace of mind, as well as stools and chairs you can use in the shower to relieve body pains and aches whilst washing.
