

Helping to provide peace of mind for care providers

SAFETY AT EVERY LEVEL

You care for your patients and residents, day in day out. And want to have peace of mind that accidental falls from opened windows, or vulnerable patients wandering outside without care is unlikely to happen within your site.

In care environments, the balance between providing exceptional care for your residents, creating safe environments and enabling a sense of freedom can sometimes be a tricky mix.

Having windows that open are safety hazards, as accidental falls from windows can, and have happened.

That's where Jackloc window restrictors come in

Window restrictors are required in care environments to provide protection for elderly and vulnerable residents from falling from an open window.

With a restrictor in place, residents can enjoy the benefits of having windows open, whilst care staff can have peace of mind that accidental falls will not happen.

Ground floor windows can be protected from non-supervised exits, as well as against intruders.

The Jackloc Folding Window Restrictor

Is tested to hold a force of 4800N – that's the equivalent of 74 stone, or 5 men!

The strength tests exceed BS EN 14351 force standards, so only one folding restrictor is required

Suitable for side and top hung windows

Has an ergonomic and streamlined look suitable for all environments

Can be fitted to uPVC, timber and metal frames

Comes with a 10 year guarantee

The Jackloc Folding Window Restrictor is our strongest restrictor yet, built intentionally for the care market.

SAFETY AT EVERY LEVEL

Jackloc: Who we are

The Jackloc was invented in 2003 and is the original and award-winning window restrictor manufacturer. We pride ourselves on creating quality products that provide peace of mind within care environments.

More importantly, we want to help. Our team are available to discuss solutions for your individual window requirements.

Windows come in a variety of shapes, sizes and materials, so we offer risk assessments to ascertain the right product for your environment.
