Administrative change of our legal entity

Dear Valued Business Partner,

As outlined in our previous communication, BASF Coatings (including Chemetall) has become the standalone company Surventis. By September 30th, all of our legal entities globally will be renamed to reflect our new name.

As a supplier of 'Chemetall Ltd.', we want to inform you that the renaming of this entity is officially completed now. The entity is now called 'Surventis Surface Treatment Ltd.' To ensure business continuity, please update the new name in all relevant systems on your end with immediate effect.

This change is limited to the company name. It does not affect our business information such as VAT number or bank account, our equity structure, legal representative, registered capital, business scope, office address, contact information, or business team.

If you have any further questions, please do not hesitate to contact your known Procurement contact. We may reach out to you again once another legal entity you do business with has completed its renaming.

Thank you for your support in this matter. We are looking forward to continuing our partnership with you!

Best regards,
