HUMAN RIGHTS POLICY

Executive Summary

Human Rights

360 ALERT SECURITY LTD's Human Rights policy formalizes our long-standing commitment to uphold and respect human rights for all people. 360 ALERT SECURITY LTD's leadership team believes this policy reflects the standards for business conduct and human rights, provides a cornerstone for 360 ALERT SECURITY LTD to identify and manage its human rights impacts, mitigate risks and maximize opportunities for human rights to flourish, and fosters collaborative and transparent engagement with the global community of stakeholders and investors.

Human rights are the fundamental rights, freedoms, and standards of treatment adhered to by governments, businesses, and individuals around the world. 360 ALERT SECURITY LTD upholds and respects human rights as contained in the United Nations Universal Declaration of Human Rights (UDHR), the eight Core Labor Conventions developed by the International Labor Organization (ILO), the UN Global Compact, and the UN Guiding Principles on Business and Human Rights. The Guiding Principles, in particular, clarify the duty of governments' to protect against human rights abuses by third parties, including business enterprises, the corporate responsibility to respect human rights, and a joint responsibility of business and government to remedy adverse human rights impacts if they occur.

Following substantial research, benchmarking of industry best practices, and consultation with leading organizations on the topic of human rights, 360 ALERT SECURITY LTD believes that it is critical for all values-based companies to develop a formal approach to human rights. Human rights have long been integrated into how 360 ALERT SECURITY LTD works with supply chain partners, develops employee ethics codes and policies, and creates a safe, inclusive, and diverse workplace.

Creating, implementing, and communicating a formal human rights policy, as part of a broader framework and roadmap for protecting human rights, will help to maintain 360 ALERT SECURITY LTD's leadership in the IT industry, reduce the potential for negative reputational risks, and present opportunities for engagement and collaboration with human rights stakeholders.

360 ALERT SECURITY LTD's approach to human rights is informed by the documents identified above, and anchored to the approach set forth in the UN Guiding Principles. Many leading companies, including 360 ALERT SECURITY LTD, with global operations have committed to adhering to the Guiding Principles which include the development of a human rights policy, a framework to assess and mitigate known risks, and mechanisms to report and remedy grievances where they occur. 360 ALERT SECURITY LTD is fully committed to this approach over the long-term.

The UN Guiding Principles state that:

"[I]n order [for companies] to meet their responsibility to respect human rights, business enterprises should have in place policies and processes appropriate to their size and circumstances, including: (a) A policy commitment to meet their responsibility to respect human rights;

(b) A human rights due-diligence process to identify, prevent, mitigate and account for how they address their impacts on human rights;

HUMAN RIGHTS POLICY

(c) Processes to enable the remediation of any adverse human rights impacts they cause or to which they contribute.

Business enterprises need to know and show that they respect human rights. They cannot do so unless they have certain policies and processes in place.”

The Guiding Principles additionally call for companies to integrate human rights assessment processes into regular business practices, and to measure and report on impacts. The Guiding Principles also require proactive stakeholder engagement as a tool for companies help to identify and mitigate potential risks and develop positive opportunities for impacted communities.
