Cookie Policy

The Diocese of Arundel & Brighton makes all reasonable efforts to ensure information published on this website is accurate at the time of its inclusion; however, there may be errors, inaccuracies or omissions in respect of which we exclude all liability.

Cookie Policy – Information the Diocese collects from your computer or mobile device.

Cookies are small text files on your device. They are made by your web-browser when you visit a website. Every time you go back to that website, your browser will send the cookie file back to the website's server. Cookies are useful because they allow a website to recognise a user's device. You can find more information about cookies at:

www.allaboutcookies.org and www.youronlinechoices.eu

Cookies do lots of different jobs, like letting you navigate between pages efficiently, remembering your preferences, and generally improving the user experience. They can also help to ensure that adverts you see online are more relevant to you and your interests.

Like many websites, the Diocese uses cookies in order to provide you with a more personalised web service.

Cookies help us identify which bits of our website people are using and help us do work on those sections of the website to improve the user experience. We also use cookies to help show content on our site which is relevant to you and your interests, for example if on a previous visit you went to our pages about the Bishop, news or events, we might find this out from your cookie and show you other information on our website related to the bishop, news or events on subsequent visits.
