

Occupational Health Coronavirus Advice Line

Sugarman Occupational Health is offering clients a Coronavirus advisory service to support managers and HR teams who are struggling to cope with increasing numbers of questions and concerns in the workplace. Employee health is paramount but with information relating to COVID-19 changing daily, it is essential to keep people up to date with the latest information and guidance.

Relieve the pressure with our dedicated advisory service

The Coronavirus Advisory Service offers a call back service manned by qualified Occupational Health and Screening Nurses who are available to reassure and support employees in respect of their symptoms and self-isolation rules.

What your employees will be able to access

A dedicated, qualified nurse

A helpline service for added reassurance and guidance

An up to date information and resource portal
