Cork Fun Weekend

The Cork Women's Fun Weekend is as popular as ever, attracting women from Kerry, Dublin, Galway and abroad. Its focus is fun and entertainment, and a guaranteed great week-end for women.

The weekend kicked off with a disco/Ceilé in Moore's Hotel. The hall was full of women in summer clothes dancing into the small hours, forgetting to conserve our energy for the sports field the next day. Saturday was a mix of sports and workshops. Pool, bowling and team games were held in the Mardyke Centre in the afternoon. Wisely, the games were segregated in contact/non-contact sports. For the fainthearted there was softball and for the women who fancied a bit of physical contact and the odd stud-mark there was soccer. Two great games of football were played with about fifteen on each team. Amazingly consensus was reached on fouls so no referee was needed.

Saturday night was a highlight with a packed hall to hear Mary O'Sullivan, Sharon Murphy and Zrazy. The cabaret line-up included fire-eating by Maggie, who managed to finish her act without setting off smoke alarms or setting fire to any of the fittings in Moore's hotel. The night rounded off with a great disco catering for all tastes.

On Sunday afternoon a pub quiz in Loafers Bar, Cork's great little lesbian and gay pub, attracted seven crack teams with very rude names. Our collective knowledge of lesbian history and culture seemed undimmed by the excesses of the night before, and in a close-run contest the Strap-ons beat the k.d. langers by just one point.

The festivities continued with a disco in the evening for those who, unlike us, did not have to travel home for work the next day.

Great crack and lots to do, so well done, Cork women, for another resounding success!
