Fun WEEKEND

This year's Women's Fun Weekend will take place from May 12th - 14th in Cork and we would like to give you some more information about events and locations...

Friday, 12th

For those who arrive early, registration and accommodation arrangements will be done at the Women's Place, Quay Co-Op, 24 Sullivan's Quay between 6 - 8 p.m., afterwards the meeting point for further registration is (surprise, surprise) not "Loafers" but the "Windsor Hotel", McCurtain St., where you'll have an opportunity to make and/or renew contacts, exchange the latest gossip and have the odd pint (or two...). The registration fee is £2,- unwaged and £3,- waged. Please note that this year registration is absolutely essential as you'll receive a free Fun Weekend badge which enables you to participate in the workshops, sports, socials, parties without extra-fee. For those interested, there'll be a private party after pub closing time. Can we expect the first session?

Saturday, 13th

Sat. is packed with activities - thus gather your energy beforehand! From 11 a.m. - 6 p.m. several workshops take place in the Women's Place, the Resources Centre and the Christian Brothers' School beside the Quay Co-Op. Workshops are open for everybody and you have a variety to choose from: Yoga, Self-Defense, Writer's workshop, Set Dance, Astrology (subject: a discussion of the Saturn-Neptune tryple conjunction in Capricorn and its effects on us in 1989), Irish-language (introduction and basics), Herstory (subject: Women's studies Archaelogy; lifting the curtain of patriarchal delusion especially as applied to Gaelic early herstory) and probably a Tarot workshop. A display of where and when each workshop takes place will be handed out. Also, there'll be one member of the organization group around for further registration. Sports will be run at the Mar-Dyke pitch, gathering to go out there at noon. The choices are up to you: Camogie, Softball, Soccer and whatever comes in mind. Between 4 - 6 p.m, you'll have a further possibility to register in the Women's Place. A women-only cafe space will be available in the Quay Co-Op the whole day long.

And then - at last - your chance to dress up, Ladies! From 8.00 p.m. onwards you can storm the "Country Club Hotel", St. Lukes (advertised for the best wedding receptions in Cork - there you are) to have a ball at the Cabaret and Disco up to 1.30 a.m. The Cabaret starts at 8.30 p.m. sharp and hopefully offers a good variety of performances as there is juggling, trad. music, feminist poetry, songs - etc. Admission: £3,- unw., £4,- waged.

Sunday, 14th

This is the day to say farewell to most of you - we'll have a table quizz, sessions and whatever you fancy doing in "Loafers" from noon onwards.

Preparations are in full swing and we started praying to the sun goddess for the weekend.

Hope you'll have a smashing time in Cork!
