Critical reflections on fieldwork with Chinese businesses in Ghana and Angola

Giles Mohan (Open University) and May Tan-Mullins (Nottingham Ningbo)
Salsa dancing, jetfighters and a president’s promise
Enclaves?
Bui Dam
The Most Livable City in Africa

Overview
Bui City is like no other city in Africa. It has a living and sparkling water bisecting the city. The waterways offer residents and visitors lush greenery, colourful gardens, water sports and inviting waterfront for relaxation. The city is clean and well-planned.

Bui City will certainly be one of Africa's most livable and cosmopolitan cities of the world. Properly planned after a lot of details have been painstakingly and thoroughly examined, it is also being built with strict adherence to the agreed standards to ensure that the city management objectives are achieved. The Chinese planners have worked with their Ghanaian counterparts in a very collaborative manner to create a lasting project.