

THE HOCKEY MUSEUM TIME CAPSULE for COVID-19 lockdown

#StayHomeStaySafe #THMTimeCapsule

Have fun with our Time Capsule activities

The Hockey Museum (THM) has created a #THMTimeCapsule pack for children and families to complete during this surreal time. Encourage your children to complete the activities so that they can reflect back on their situation, thoughts and feelings when they are older.

Keep the original for you and your children to enjoy, preserving their work like THM preserves its collection. If you wish, please scan and email the completed pack to THM so we can also record it, and be sure to share your children's efforts with us on social media using #THMTimeCapsule.

In these troubling times we find hockey and daily life disrupted in unprecedented ways: domestic seasons have gone unfinished; national and global events have been postponed; families and friends are enduring physical disconnect in ways not experienced for generations. And yet through all this the 'hockey family' has risen to the occasion. Moments of light-hearted frivolity and community spirit have defied the present situation to reveal the power of hockey to bring people together and raise spirits, even when we cannot physically meet.

The Hockey Museum (THM) has created a #THMTimeCapsule pack for children and families to complete during this surreal time. Encourage your children to complete the activities so that they can reflect back on their situation, thoughts and feelings when they are older. Keep the original for you and your children to enjoy, preserving their work like THM preserves its collection. If you wish, please scan and email the completed pack to us through collections@hockeymuseum.org so we can also record it, and be sure to share your children's efforts with us on social media using the hashtag #THMTimeCapsule.

More about The Hockey Museum

The Hockey Museum is seeking to collect and record the impact of coronavirus on hockey nationally and globally, from grassroots to elite level, as well as hockey's role in combatting the subsequent separation and upheaval. This will ensure that future generations can learn about and understand the strange and unsettling period through which we are currently living.

THM's coronavirus collecting covers both physical and digital material across some of the following areas:

- Memorabilia or archival material relating to Tokyo 2020 or Easter festivals that is now redundant, including design work and concept art that won't now see the light of day.
- Fundraising by hockey players of any level for the NHS, essential workers or similar COVID-19 related causes.
- The experiences of 'hockey family' medical personnel (doctors, nurses, physiotherapists etc.) during the pandemic.
- How hockey players, clubs and associations have responded/adapted to the coronavirus disruption including:
 - The domestic season finishing early;
 - Tours and festivals being cancelled;
 - Annual/anniversary dinners being cancelled;
 - AGMs being rescheduled or embracing technology to hold these digitally.
- Digital connectivity during the pandemic:
 - Methods and examples of players and clubs managing to stay in touch remotely and keep positive, connected and active.
 - Original footage of coronavirus-related digital content, e.g. social media posts such as the club keepy-up loo roll challenge montages, Sam Ward's Isolation Olympics etc.
- Oral histories relating to the above areas of contemporary collecting.

In addition, THM is also searching for material related to the previously cancelled Olympic Games: Berlin 1916, Tokyo 1940 (which briefly became Helsinki 1940), and London 1944.

Please get in touch through collections@hockeymuseum.org if you have anything relevant to donate. Keep well.

Heroes from the hockey family

"The hard-worked sisters of the hospitals... have a hockey ground, and twice a week they play the invigorating game"

Courageous workers have risked their own lives to save ours during the COVID-19 pandemic. They are heroes.

Describe or draw your hero from your Hockey family. What has your hero been doing during this pandemic? Your hero may be on the medical frontline fighting this disease or they may be doing something special for your community.

Isolation interview (questions and notes)

The Hockey Museum collects interviews with older hockey people. It is a great way of preserving their knowledge and understanding. During your lockdown, interview an older person about their memories of hockey and thoughts about isolation. Use the speech bubbles to prepare your questions and to write the responses given. Record it digitally or write it out on the next page.

Tip tap toe tap

Hockey players around the world have found entertainment through the video-sharing platform of TikTok, with its mission of inspiring creativity and bringing joy. GB & England hockey star Sam Ward created his own #IsolationOlympics recreating every Olympic Sport from his own home, even rhythmic gymnastics! Through TikTok families have learnt dance routines together.

Use the device screens on the next page to create your own step-by-step dance routine. Print more pages if you need to.

Make sure you wear hockey kit or include a piece of hockey equipment.

If you can, record your dance with a black and white filter, to make it look like an old film, and share on social media with The Hockey Museum.

Jigsaw jumble

Jigsaw sales have increased during lockdown as families find things to do. One manufacturer said, "We've noticed that the puzzles that are being purchased more are the larger ones - the 1,000-piece puzzles." Design your own jigsaw to be cut-out and pieced together in the future.

Motivational messages

Motivation comes in many forms, but it can be difficult to keep motivated during lockdown. Write down any kind, inspiring or motivational messages that you have received from your Hockey coach, club or teammate, or even your friends. Add some photos of you practicing your hockey skills in the garden or around the house - maybe with the toilet roll if you tried that challenge!

Lockdown laughs

Write down your favourite jokes below to have some laughs during lockdown and in the future. For now, share them with friends and family or The Hockey Museum volunteers on social media.

What does a great hockey forward have in common with a magician?

Hat tricks.

OMG

Why was Cinderella such a poor hockey player?

Because she had a pumpkin for a coach.
