

A family silhouette consisting of a man, a woman, and a child, standing on a grassy field and looking up at a vibrant fireworks display. The fireworks are exploding in the night sky, creating a colorful pattern of orange, yellow, and white streaks against a dark background. The family is positioned on the left side of the frame, with the man and woman pointing towards the fireworks. The child is standing between them, also looking up. The overall scene is festive and celebratory.
