ENGLAND RUGBY TRAINING JOURNEY

MY TRAINING JOURNEY

If you want to give your players a great rugby experience you should be aiming to get on the journey to 'skilled expert.' This will be achieved through a combination of applied coaching and/or refereeing practice and developing your rugby knowledge.

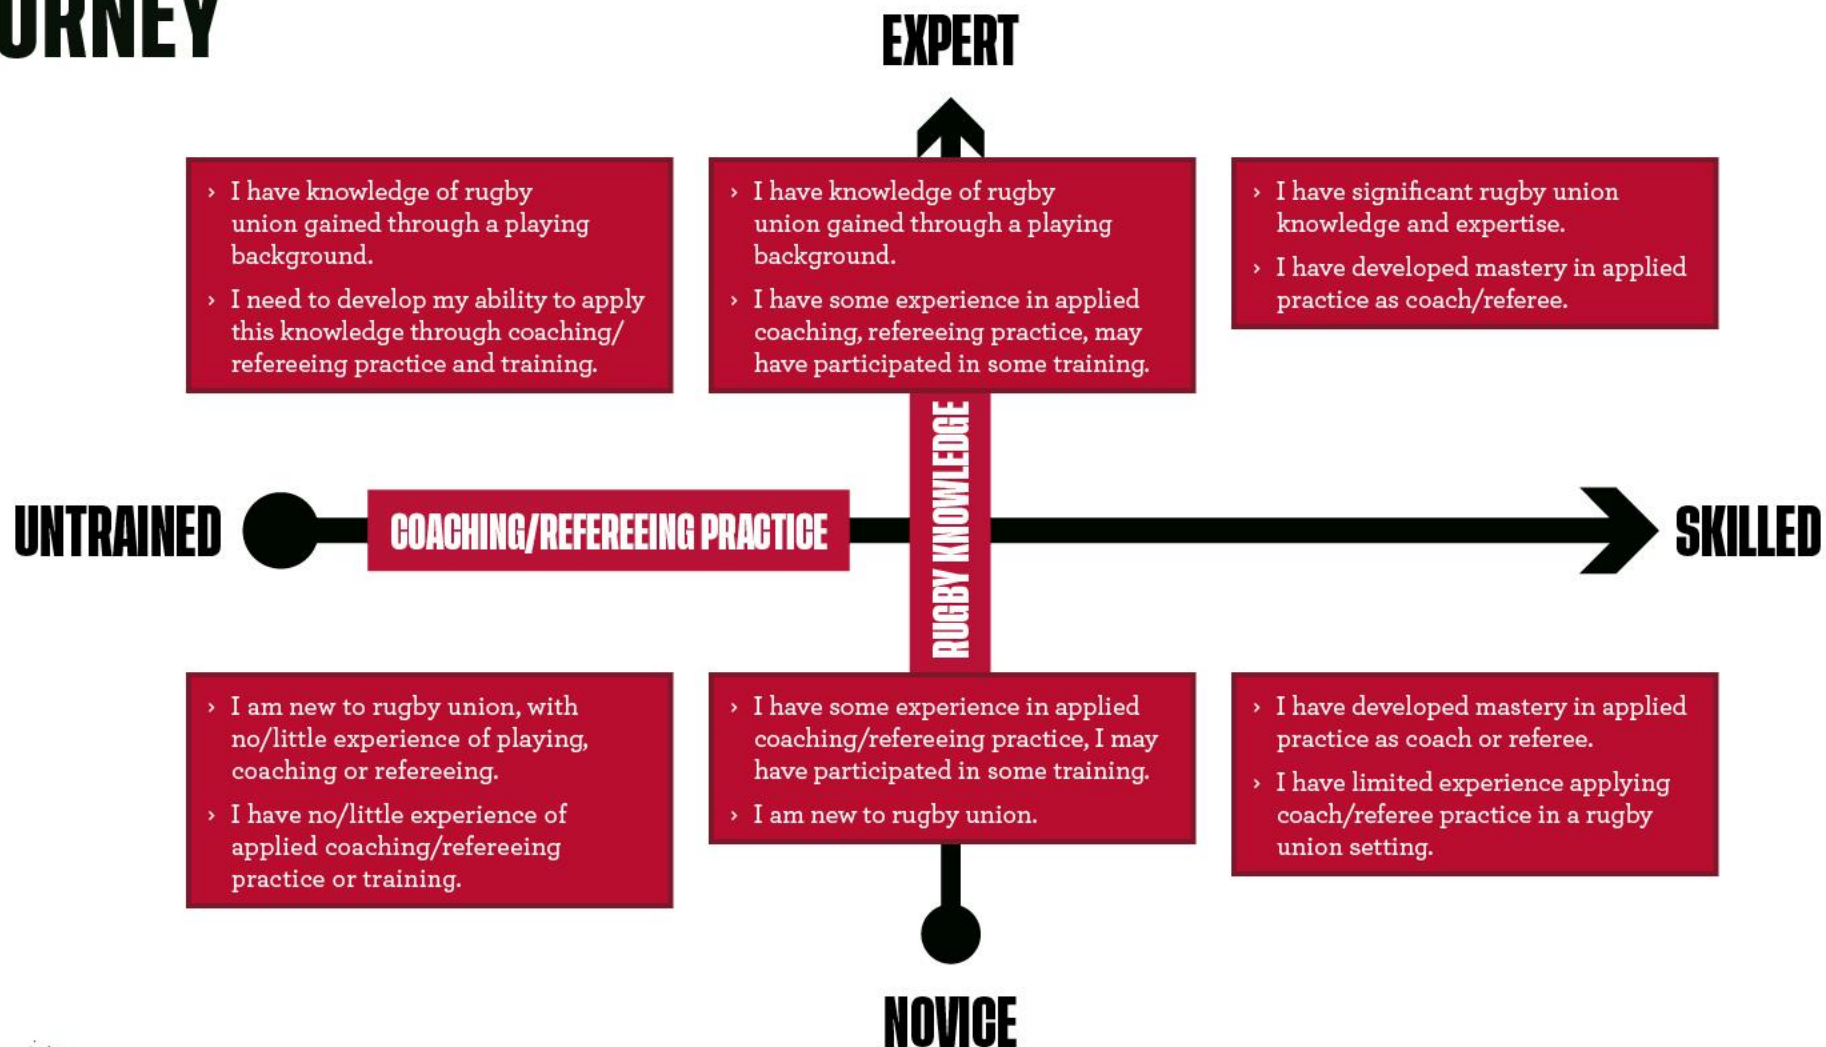

Everyone should be trained in best practice around player safety and safeguarding to reduce the risk of injury or harm to players. This should include concussion awareness training and an understanding of how to safely coach and referee the contact areas of rugby union.

MY TRAINING JOURNEY

These generic descriptors might help you to plot your starting point on the diagram.

Look at the training courses on offer on the following pages to identify which can best support your journey to develop your rugby knowledge and coaching & refereeing practice.

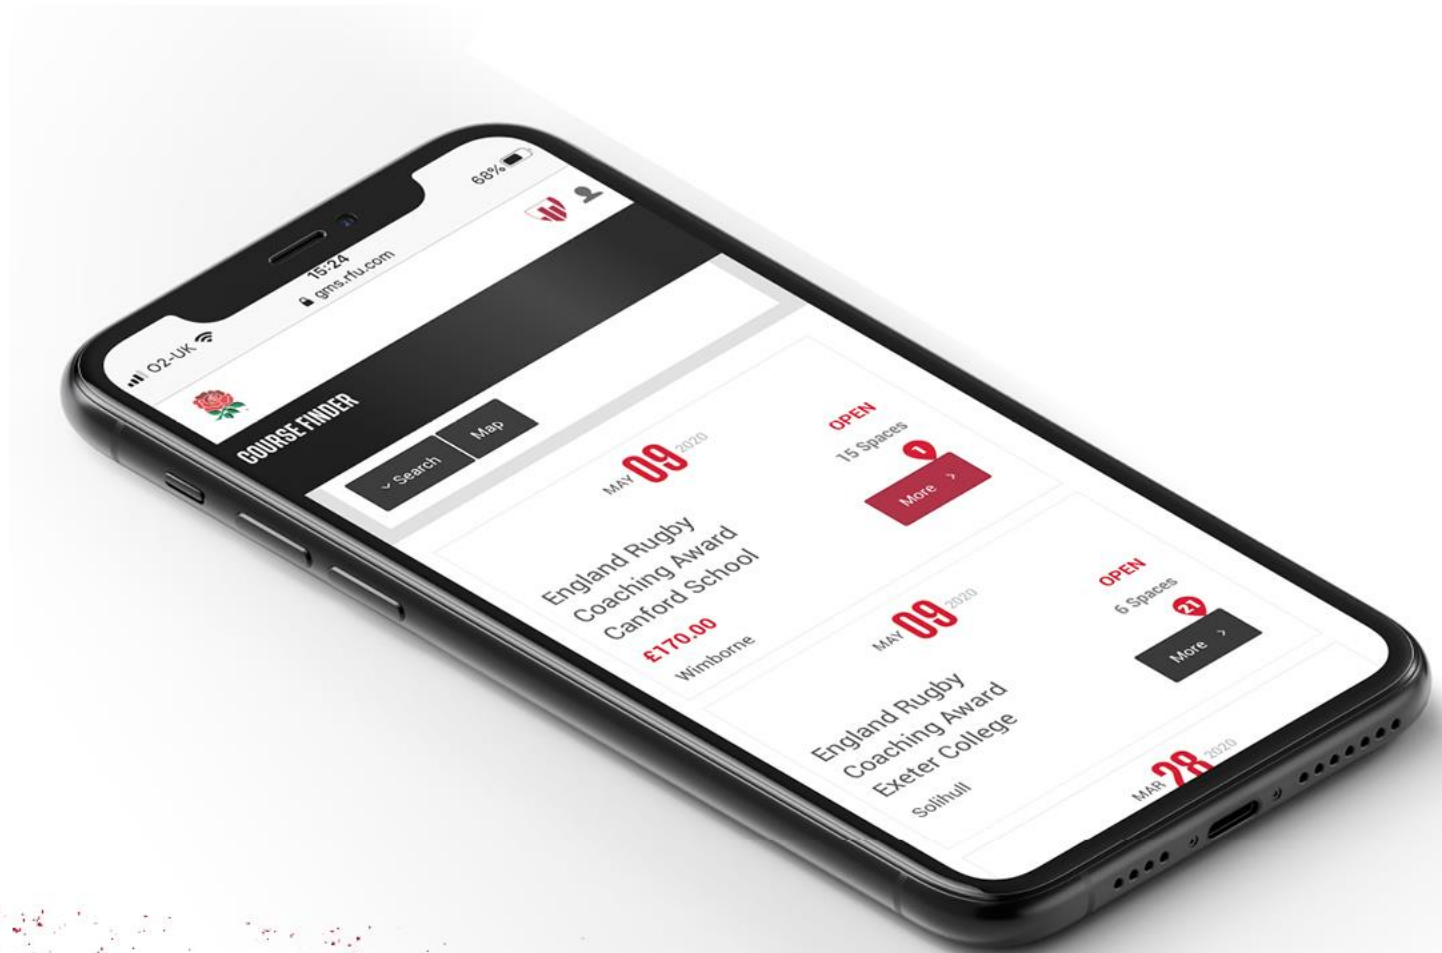

HOW TO FIND AND BOOK A COURSE

What do I need to book?

You will require your RFU Game Management System (GMS) login details to book onto any training course. Your club can help you with these if you do not know them.

ACTIVATE

Activate is the RFU's Injury Prevention Exercise Programme

It can be integrated into training and pre-match sessions. Exercises are designed to improve functional and core strength, balance and agility, helping players with the game's physical demands.

The Activate eLearning course (see page 12), gives you access to a range of digital resources to enhance your understanding and help your coaching.

This can also be shared with players so they can practice these exercises on their own.

Research conducted with schoolboy and adult male players found that when completed 3 times a week (twice before training and on a match day) the programme led to a reduction in injuries, including concussion.
