

Information on GDPR at SSV

The GDPR (General Data Protection Regulation) is a data protection regulation that governs how we may use personal data. The regulation applies throughout the EU / EEA and means that it is the same rules for all companies and associations, large and small, throughout the EU. The intention is that you will be safe with our handling of your personal information. You also have the right to delete your personal information if you wish. For you that are SSV members (i.e. participated in the Smögen Summer Symposium on Virology meeting during the past three years), we only save your name and your email address for the purpose of reaching out with messages, newsletters etc. Your personal information will not be disclosed to anyone else. If you do not agree that we to save your name and your email address and want us to remove this information, please contact our webmaster Marianne.Jansson@med.lu.se
