

Protecting and serving the people of Kent

Dear Parents

My name is PCSO Sue Kemsley and I am the e-Safety Police Community Support Officer (PCSO) for primary schools West Kent.

On Tuesday 24th May, I will be attending your school to complete a parent talk on internet safety commencing at 2pm.

Most parents I meet will say to me "it is fine I trust my child on the internet" or "I know enough to keep my child safe". However when I start to ask them what websites their children are using, they are unsure. Do you know the dangers of the internet? Do you know how to protect yourself and child from the risks that are being faced when they log on?

This will give you a chance to ask questions about sites that your children may be using, password protection and Child Exploitation Online Protection Centre (CEOP).

Please can I ask you to return the slip below to show your interest in attending this event so I can sort hand-outs for you?

The session will last around approx. 50mins. I will stay and answer questions for as long as required after this. Please bring a pen.

This session is not suitable for your child to attend

Due to the nature of our business, please be aware that this session may be cancelled at any time, even on the day itself. The school will contact you in the event that the session is unable to go ahead.

I look forward to seeing you.

Kindest regards

PCSO Sue Kemsley
