

Rev' d Robert Fielding

Hello there, I began as a governor at St Peters in 2015 having been appointed to the role of Priest in Charge for the parish of Read St John and Simonstone St Peters, but this is not my first time as a governor, and my daughter also enjoys life at St Peters School.

Her three siblings are all still at school locally too. I am married to Jayne, and before this we have, as a family, been involved with primary schools in several different counties of England, so I have seen quite a few comparisons!

I visit on a regular basis, whether that is to speak in a class, attend an outing, arrange a service, put on an assembly, or just talk to staff, parents and children.

I am very impressed with the feel of the place, the work of the staff, their links with the Church and wider community, and I look forward to working with other governors, staff, parents and children, and even other schools, to try to help make the educational experience even better for everyone.

Before this I worked for the NHS as a professional Healthcare Chaplain, in secure Psychiatric and mainstream acute services in and around Liverpool. I was an Anglican Priest in Liverpool Diocese and I have been a BBC reporter and producer and a self employed creative facilitator, working with various marginalised and disadvantaged groups. Recently I have had an academic interest in Theology and Psychology, working towards a professional development MSc in Consciousness Studies, Spirituality and Transpersonal Psychology in particular, but before broadcast journalism my background was really in Arts, and I also love science, nature, contemplation and following Liverpool Football Club.
