

AOP Awards 2019

Stills – Motion – Innovation

The AOP Awards are now open!

Regarded as the leading awards of their kind and now in their 35th year, you not only have the chance of being selected for an unprecedented 7 week exhibition which runs from 15 April – 31 May 2019 at One Canada Square in Canary Wharf, where 50,000 people will see your work. You will be invited to the industry party of the year as well as the chance of winning Gold, Silver or event Bronze, selected by one of the many leading names who are the curators of this year's award categories listed below.

The Open Awards are open to everyone and close on 25 February 2019.

Categories:

Stills: the image is the star, exciting and innovative work is encouraged.
Curated by Fiona Shields, Head of Photograph – The Guardian.

Moving Image: the content is up to you but must be no more than 7 mins and demonstrate your understanding and skills within the medium. All entries in this category must reference whether the work is collaboration with another artist be it a director, editor, colour grader, musician etc. or whether it's the independent work of the photographer. You may also wish to illustrate the creative use of technologies such as AR, VR, CGI or any other technique. Curator info coming soon.

Innovation: An example of excellence that illustrates the creative use of technologies and innovations in the production of still images. This can be AR, VR, CGI or any other technique.
Curated: Matt Beveridge, Executive Director & Co-Founder – Pebble Studios
