

Peter's One Page Profile

What people like and admire about me

I'm a friendly chap, I like to tell stories, they help us make sense of the world – we are all storytellers at heart though may not know it! I'm good at listening and reflecting back on what's being said to help find a way through

What is important to me

- I aim to live and work with kindness and generosity at the heart of my day – though not always successfully, but I try!
- I like to be involved in lots of things and know that I'm making a real difference in what matters to people
- Acting quickly on the surprising things and taking time to understand whether it could have been done differently from the outset
- Listening to the voices of people who use services - it's what we are about
- Acknowledging that it isn't always straightforward and that it's OK to say so, it's a team sport and between us we'll be able to sort it
- My family and that includes a close circle of friends, if you want to distract me, ask about Rufus!

How best to support me at work

- Liking to be involved in lots of things might mean you having to take some things off me – saying “why don't I do that?” can be helpful
- If I appear to be mulling something over it's fine to ask me what I'm thinking and offering a view
- I tend to run right up to deadlines, so be clear when you need something for (and it's fine to check on my progress!), if you're helping me meet a deadline let me know if there's a problem as soon as you know
- If something isn't working for you and you need help just say, no doubt it can be sorted though I might miss the signs if you don't say what the issue is and what might help
- And if I seem quiet or not myself then “fancy a brew?” is a good start
