WHO AM I?

- Final year Sociology student
- Founder and Chair of the Funk and Soul society for the last 2 years
- Promoter of Grooveline events running throughout Manchester- engaging with target markets and strong experience in a promotional role: important for management and support for societies!
- Presenter of J Chills on Hive Radio for the past 2 years

WHAT DO I STAND FOR?

HOW WILL I CHANGE IT ?

Accountability

- Ensure good communication is happening among societies and the society councils
- Strong training on committee roles within a society

Inclusivity

- Make sure societies are accessible and inviting to all
- Encourage new societies that cater for a wider range of interests and individuals
- Be creative with promoting societies and their community ideals

Transparency

- More help and support regarding societal finances
- An important integration of the union and wider university

Accountability

- Hold regular meetings and maintain strong connections with societal leaders through social media and 1-1 advice
- Organise more informal affairs with committees to engage close contact and encourage friendships and alliances

Inclusivity

- Give students more support and promotional material for their societal events through a variety of social media platforms
- Promote the idea of running a society in an effective manner: allowing students to acknowledge the ease of starting up their own

Transparency

- Hold regular promotional events not solely at the union but also at residential halls to allow societies to reach out more to students
- In turn this gives the union a greater promotional platform- this also helps integrate the union and the wider university together
