

EVE MCKENNA

WELLBEING OFFICER – TEAM ‘BEDS’

Hello! I'm Eve McKenna and I am campaigning to be your next wellbeing officer. I am in my second year of BA (Hons) Business and Marketing and also a member of the student staff in the union.

Being a part of the union community has been vital to my time at university and it would be humbling to be able to use my experience of the union and student life to give something back.

I believe mental and physical wellbeing is the foundation of an enjoyable university experience and all students deserve a wellbeing officer and service that they can rely on.

As your next student wellbeing officer, I will:

- Review and analyse the current wellbeing service to work towards reduce waiting times for counselling and providing care for students on the waiting list.
- Facilitate research to gather data on what YOU need from a wellbeing service.
- Improve communication of personal care system and increase contact time of personal tutors, student support officers and residential advisors.
- Reduce housing related stress by implementing a system for reporting and reviewing landlords.
- Increasing safety in local areas by giving students a platform to voice their concerns to the local community services.

I believe that as your representative I can implement positive change to create an environment that inspires and encourages all students to #livetheirbestlife
