

Susie Dobson is a singer, songwriter and musician based in Bristol.

Born with a love of song, Susie first discovered a passion for performing while studying Musical Theatre at school, and through singing lessons enforced by her parents which, to her surprise, she found she enjoyed.

After being introduced to the ukulele by friends, she soon bought her own... and another one... and another one...!

Susie was soon on stage at her local folk club, and began to fall in love with traditional song, to complement her existing contemporary musical tastes... and thus, her unique style was born.

The folk scene in Bristol began to sit up and take notice, and Susie soon found herself opening for the likes of Gilmore & Roberts, Hattie Briggs, Said The Maiden and Claudia Schwab, as well as performing at Bristol Folk Festival, Folk On The Water, Keynsham Music Festival, Bristol Fringe and a host of local events.

Susie will be launching her debut EP, 'Scrapbook', at this event.
