What Does Australasian Research Look Like?

External (left) and internal (right) collaboration patterns are presented here. Researchers are coloured by the field of research that they most commonly publish in, and sized by total number of journal articles that they have published (relative to the network). To create the networks, journal articles published between 2015 and 2018 were analysed.