

We have quoted a lot of different research in this episode of Which? Investigates, so if you want to do any more reading here are the links to all the articles we came across while doing our investigation.

For context the last contest before the Covid-19 pandemic, held in the Israeli city of Tel Aviv, saw 10,000 visitors but the city isn't the easiest to reach from many parts of Europe.

<https://www.timesofisrael.com/tel-aviv-eyes-tourism-boon-with-amazing-eurovision-week>

So let's look at the year before. In 2018 the Portuguese capital Lisbon welcomed over 100,000 fans during Eurovision week itself.

<https://www.tourism-review.com/portuguese-tourism-benefited-greatly-from-eurovision-news10589>

Recent research found that last year's event in Turin and the 2021 event in the Dutch city of Rotterdam saw a general increase of £200 - £250 for the weekend of the Grand Final, sitting at around £600 for a two-night stay.

<https://www.liverpoolecho.co.uk/news/liverpool-news/unprecedented-prices-liverpool-accommodation-during-26551227>

Last month Liverpool City Council partnered with Air BnB, calling on residents in the city to put fans up in their spare rooms in an attempt to help alleviate the problem.

<https://liverpoolexpress.co.uk/airbnb-liverpool-call-on-locals-to-host-song-contest-fans-in-spare-rooms/>

