Dear Parents and Carers

Revised School Vision, Values and Aims

As part of our on-going revision of all our policies the teachers have carefully studied our vision, values and aims statements. Below are our amendments (in bold and italics) and we would value your feedback.

Our Vision Statement:

To be a forward looking creative community school providing our children with an outstanding education and developing in them personal qualities to enable them to become global citizens within a changing world.

Values -

Respect and Responsibility
Confidence
Kindness
Honesty
Enthusiasm for Learning

We feel that these have been well used and filter through daily life at school and the curriculum. The words are ones which are meaningful to the children and therefore no changes would be made.

School Aims:

To enable our children to have a valued voice which is an integral part of the school ethos.

To provide outstanding education which maximises achievement, promotes lifelong learning and enables our children to leave with confidence, ambition and compassion.

To embrace our community and appreciate both the local environment and the wider world.

To encourage children to develop responsible and positive attitudes towards time, work and money.

To promote lifelong health and well being by enabling children to make sound and informed choices and stay safe.

To have high expectations of work and behaviour in a creative school that's constantly evolving.

We would like to add the statement below to the aims to update them, as teaching British values has become a statutory requirement.

To promote British values of democracy, rule of honor, individual liberty and mutual respect and tolerance of those with different faiths and beliefs.

If you have any feedback on these please let me know by Friday 23rd October. Thank you again for your ongoing support.

Yours sincerely

Rebecca Harris
