The Perryfield Post

Science Week

Two weeks ago it was British Science Week. Mrs Vale our Science Co-ordinator organised a fantastic assembly to get the children's curiosity flowing. This assembly was absolutely fantastic and the children were completely fascinated. I'm sure they told you all about it at the time.

We also had several parents/carers and grandparents into school to take part in some science experiments in the hall. Please see the school website for more photos.

Thank you once again for your continued support.

School Help

The weather is gradually warming up and we are keen to get our school allotments started. I have already had two volunteers to help me dig over the allotments when we return back to school after the Easter holidays. More volunteers would make it much quicker to achieve this. Please let me know if you can help on Thursday 19th April at 1.15pm. Thank you.

Children's Social Networks

We all continue to work hard in protecting our children whilst on the internet. I have recently received a helpful website that is a guide to the social networks your children may use. This site will help you stay up to date and keep your child safe in today's digital world. To children, online life is real life.

The NSPCC have joined forces with O2 to create this site which includes an online safety helpline for questions about parental controls or concerns about a social network your child may use.

The site also includes online safety videos about talking to your child about staying safe online. <https://www.net-aware.org.uk/#>

Last week the NSPCC came into school to deliver a child friendly assembly on keeping children safe. Its aim was to try to prevent abuse and making children aware of The Underwear Rule. Obviously this was delivered at an age appropriate level.

As a school we will continue to provide the best support and education to all our children.

The Big Question

Our Core Value for this half term has been individuality. We have been thinking about ourselves, friends, family, people around the world and our precious environment.

The BIG QUESTION this week is 'Is it important to be tolerant of others? How can we resolve disagreements?'

Please discuss this at home.

Whole School Trip

Next term we will be starting our whole school theme 'Coast to Coast'. The staff have already started to plan the exciting learning around the National Curriculum.

The Senior Leadership Team have recently visited Walton on the Naze and the education centre there. It looks absolutely fantastic and well equipped to cater for all our needs.

Each year the whole school embarks on a different trip and although we haven't been to Walton on the Naze as a school for 10 years I know the activities planned will be thoroughly enjoyable and will definitely inspire the rest of the terms work.

Please can I remind everyone to return the permission slip along with the trip contributions as soon as possible but no later than Friday 11th May.

The tide will be out all day which is perfect for fossil hunting and rock pooling. Let's hope the sun shines and the children won't need coats.
