What type of SEND (Special Educational Needs and Disabilities) provision does Dropmore Infant School cater for?

At Dropmore, we work hard to support every child to meet their full potential. Educational experiences are provided to develop a pupil's achievement and recognise their individuality. Diversity is valued as a rich resource, which supports the learning of all. We recognise a child's right to a broad, balanced, relevant and challenging curriculum which is appropriate to individual abilities, talents and personal qualities. In order to achieve this, some children will require additional support or challenge in school.

The School's arrangements for the admission of disabled pupils.

The admission of pupils with disabilities is considered in the first instance in the same way as non-disabled pupils. Further considerations are made for accessibility and individual needs are planned for to prevent any pupils being treated less favourably than other pupils. Teachers ensure pupils with disabilities are able to participate as fully and effectively as possible in the National Curriculum, and statutory assessment arrangements.

Our current facilities are:

- A ramp giving access into the main part of the school next to the office and through the Year 1 classroom.

We are not currently DDA compliant and have no disabled toilet facilities.

Supporting pupils at school with medical conditions.

Children with medical needs will have an Individual Health Care Plan tailored to a child's particular needs and agreed by the school, parents, child (if appropriate) and the relevant healthcare professional. These can be updated as needed, throughout the school year.

Dropmore Infant School is able to cater for children with a range of SEND needs and we are happy to discuss individual requirements. We strongly advise prospective parents to make an appointment with the Headteacher before applying for a school place, to ensure that appropriate provision can be put in place.

How does Dropmore Infant School identify pupils with SEND?

Pupils can be identified in a variety of ways

- Concerns raised by parents/carers, support staff, teachers or the child.
- Observations made by parents/carers, support staff or teachers.
- A medical diagnosis that could affect access to the curriculum.
- Concerns about progress and attainment.

Pupils are assessed at the beginning and throughout each school year to ensure progress is tracked carefully. Information is carefully analysed and this can assist with the early identification of pupils with SEND who may not be making the progress we would expect. Pupils who are making significantly less than expected progress, given their age and individual circumstances, are deemed to be at risk of having SEN and are usually placed upon a 'List of Concern.' This lack of progress can be in areas other than attainment. The school would look to put suitable measures in at this stage to raise attainment.

If their progress continues to be significantly slower than that of their peers (from the same baseline); fails to match the child's previous rate of progress; fails to reduce the attainment gap between them and their peers or where the attainment gap increases despite Wave 1 (class) intervention, they will be placed on the SEN register at SEN Support following consultation with parents.

Methods of assessment include: staff observations, Cognition and Learning Team visits, standardised tests (such as P Scales, Suffolk Reading Scale), School Performance Analysis and Herts for Learning data, as well as ongoing class assessments

How does Dropmore Infant School support the learning of pupils with SEND?

We aim to support and challenge all children through high quality and appropriately differentiated teaching in the classroom. Where children require additional support, we enlist a range of strategies and methods to meet their needs such as adapting work to be more accessible (over and above standard differentiation), using learning aids, additional adult support and targeted interventions that could take place in or out of the classroom.

Where a child is identified as requiring ongoing additional support, they will be placed upon the SEN register and an SEN Plan will be put in place, identifying SMART (Specific, Measurable, Achievable, Realistic, Timescale) outcomes to be achieved and detailing provision the pupil will need in order to meet these outcomes. The child is involved in this process and encouraged to contribute to their SEN Plan where appropriate.

If a pupil is unable to meet the outcomes set with the support available, the school may apply to the Local Education Authority for an Education, Health and Care Plan (EHCP). If a pupil has medical needs, a Health Care Plan will be put into place regardless of whether they have an EHCP.

How does Dropmore Infant School assess and review the progress of pupils with SEND?

Most assessment takes place during class time, on an ongoing basis. Teachers assess children by observing, noting responses to questions, working with children in lessons and marking. More specific assessment tasks are used to check progress against particular skills or learning objectives. Pupils are assessed using P Scales if working at Pre Key Stage levels. These allow us to closely monitor small steps of progress in relation to individual targets. Diagnostic testing is sometimes used to identify specific areas that need additional support. Assessment may sometimes be carried out by outside agencies such as the Cognition and Learning Team or Educational Psychologists, if the school feels it is appropriate.

SEN and EHC Plans are reviewed termly by teachers. The progress towards meeting outcomes is analysed and new outcomes or provision is agreed. If a child is not making good progress towards meeting their outcomes, it may be decided to offer additional support or perhaps change the programme to make it more effective. SEN Plans are working documents. Therefore, if a planned intervention is not enabling the child to meet their outcomes then it may be changed before the termly review. The SEN Plan will be annotated to show changes.

Children with an EHCP will have an Annual Review. All professionals involved with the child will be invited to contribute to this by attending or providing reports. The SENCO will produce a report which will be shared with the Bucks SEN Team.

How does Dropmore evaluate the effectiveness of provision for pupils with SEND?

Provision and intervention for SEND pupils are monitored to ensure they are effective for the child and have an impact on raising their attainment and meeting their own aspirations. Methods for this include:

- Scrutinising children's work
- Lesson observations and observations of programme delivery
- SEN and EHC plans are reviewed by the SENCO each term or earlier if interventions are not working.
- Data analysis and progress tracking with termly reports to Governors comparing the progress of children to national averages.
- Regular visits from SEN Governor.
- Discussions and meetings with pupils and parents.
- Outside audits by advisors, Bucks Learning Trust and Ofsted.

How does Dropmore Infant School adapt the curriculum and learning environment for children with SEND?

All teachers differentiate work for the children in their class. When a child has been identified with SEND, their work will be suitably differentiated or adapted by the class teacher to allow access to the curriculum and to work with their strengths. This could include: simplifying a task, breaking it down into more manageable stages, working as a group or having additional adult support. Some children may require different or additional support to make the curriculum more accessible. Examples of this include specialist equipment (e.g. writing slopes, sensory cushions, pencil grips etc), personalised visual timetables; adaptations to the learning environment (e.g. seating position, large print, coloured overlays) are also used in consultation with outside agencies.

Children with SEND are set specific targets according to their needs. These targets are set out in an SEN Plan or an Education Health Care Plan (EHCP). Progress in relation to the targets set is monitored by the class teacher and reviewed by the SENCO each term.

How does Dropmore Infant School provide additional support for learning?

In addition to methods used to adapt the curriculum and learning environment for children with SEND, we will also make use of the following methods if children do not make the progress we expect.

- Teachers planning for support staff to work on a 1:1 basis or within small groups to target specific needs. The support staff may also support pupils within the classroom alongside the class teacher or may work with the class to release the teacher to work with children who have SEND.
- Intervention groups run to target specific areas across a range of needs. Intervention programmes vary in length and are detailed on support plans. These are regularly reviewed to gauge effectiveness and inform future planning. They may change in between reviews of the support plan.
- Some pupils may require more expert support from an outside agency such as the Specialist Teaching Service, Occupational Therapist Service, Speech and Language Therapy etc. Following parental consent, a referral will be made to the appropriate agency. Usually, children are required to fit certain criteria before being seen. They will then be assessed and specialists will make recommendations which will usually be included in a support plan.
- Parent volunteers listen to children read or work with children in school on a regular basis.

What activities does Dropmore Infant School provide for pupils with SEND in addition to those available through the curriculum?

All children at Dropmore are encouraged to take part in all activities offered including after school clubs and activities, community events, school visits, school partnership activities and events. Adaptations and adjustments are put in place to ensure inclusion for all children.

All activities at the school and educational visits are planned carefully. Additional risk assessments will be carried out for children with an EHCP with additional 1:1 support if necessary and appropriate to the activity.

How does Dropmore Infant School improve the emotional and social development of pupils with SEND?

We believe that in order to learn effectively, children need to feel happy, safe and secure. At Dropmore, we have a high pupil to staff ratio. All staff, including teachers, teaching assistants and lunchtime supervisors, work hard to build positive relationships with the children in our care. Children know that there are a range of people they can talk to and are able to choose a key contact when particular issues arise.

Additionally, the following provision is available:

- LSAs run small group interventions designed to develop social skills as needed.
- All pupils take part in PSHE lessons.
- Children self-assess how they are feeling about their work in the classroom.
- Daily assemblies discuss feelings, values and community life.

How does Dropmore Infant School obtain new or specialist equipment and facilities?

If any individual has a need for specialist equipment or facilities the Headteacher is available to discuss this and will liaise with the local authority's SEND department. High Needs Block Funding may be sought for particularly expensive specialist equipment that is not available through other avenues.

The school has a small budget for buying in specialist advice as well as for the purchase of low cost items (e.g. writing slopes, specialist programmes, etc.). We have laptops and iPads available for children to access and record in ways other than writing.

How does Dropmore Infant School train staff in relation to pupils with SEND?

We recognise that to meet a wide range of diverse needs, staff require specific training. All staff receive training opportunities in relation to the needs to the children they are working with. These needs are assessed on an annual basis.

How does Dropmore Infant School obtain specialist expertise?

At times, it is necessary to consult with outside agencies in order to obtain more specialised advice.

Currently there is no Educational Psychologist allocated to our school. If required, the school will purchase the advice of an Educational Psychologist either through a private provider or through the Bucks Traded Service who will visit the school, observe pupils, give advice and provide reports. This will happen at the school's discretion and only where pupils have considerable needs and have not responded well to interventions or advice provided by other services.

The agencies available to be used by the school include:

- Specialist Teaching Service
- Occupational Therapist
- Speech and Language Therapy
- Educational Psychologist
- CAMHS (Child & Adolescent Mental Health Service)
- School Nurse
- PRU (Pupil Referral Unit)
- Family Resilience
- Social Services

How does Dropmore Infant School consult with parents/carers of pupils with SEND about the education of their children?

We believe that a strong and cooperative relationship with parents is hugely important if a child with SEND is to learn and enjoy being at school. We seek to include parents in the planning of provision for their children wherever possible and value their insight and expertise on their own child.

Methods of communication could include but is not limited to:

- Parent/teacher meetings held at least twice per academic year.
- Daily contact with teachers in the playground at the end of the school day.
- Appointments made to discuss children with the class teacher at any time.
- An annual written report
- Parent Information Evenings
- Parent surveys
- Termly reviews of SEN Plans where views of parents are sought.
- Appointments made with the SENCO through the school office.
- Annual reviews for children with EHC plans.
- Home/school communication book which goes home either daily or weekly.

How does Dropmore Infant School consult with children about their education?

Pupils are encouraged to contribute to their own education in a way that suits their age. Children complete 'This Is Me' where they are able to outline targets they would like to achieve and think about how they might achieve them. This is done through discussions with teachers and support staff. They are encouraged to take part in reviews by discussing how they feel they have done in reaching their targets (a smiley face system).

How does Dropmore Infant School's governing body involve other bodies (incl health, social care, BCC support services, voluntary & community groups) to meet the needs of pupils with SEND and their families?

The Governors have an appointed SEND governor who regularly attends meetings; discussing and monitoring the SEND provision and the progress of children with SEND. The Governors ensure that the school is inclusive, treating all children and staff in an equitable way. They monitor policies annually. The Governors receive reports from any outside audits such as those from advisors, Bucks Learning Trust and Ofsted and they monitor the implementation of any actions arising from these reports.

Arrangements for Complaints

It is in everybody's interest to try and resolve concerns informally without invoking formal complaints procedures. If parents are unhappy with any aspect of provision they should, in the first instance, discuss the problem with the class teacher.

If the parent is not satisfied with the class teacher's comments or the situation does not improve then they should arrange an appointment with the SENCO stating clearly what they are unhappy about and what they would like to see happen regarding their concern.

If a parent has spoken to both the class teacher and SENCO and still feels the issue is not resolved satisfactorily, then they may wish to make an appointment to see the Headteacher.

Further advice or guidance may then be sort by contacting the Chair of Governors.
