

7.1.21

I can use my phonics for writing

In the story of the Three Little Pigs, they used different materials to make their houses. Today I would like you to think of materials you would use to make a house it could be a house made from jelly and ice cream or from concrete. It can be as imaginative as you like. Remember to use your phonics to help with sounding out the words you want to write. The children are not expected to spell every word with the correct spelling at this point the important thing to remember is to use the sounds you hear and record them to help with writing. This is what we would expect in school.

Make a list of materials and draw a picture of your creation.

Please send any work you would like me to see to the reception email address:

reception@belsay.northumberland.sch.uk