

How can we reuse it?

Reusing our waste is essential to look after our planet and reduce our waste.

Reusing

After reducing our waste, the next step in taking good care of our rubbish is to reuse as much as we can.

Many of the things we throw in our rubbish can be used again.

Carrier bags can be reused to carry home your shopping from the supermarket.

Glass jars can be reused to store food in the kitchen.

Old toys, books, clothes and DVDS can be given to someone you know or donated to a charity shop.

Look around your home and in your jotter write some of the things that could be reused once you have finished with them.

Reusing

Many things can be reused by turning them into something else!

These are all things that have been made out of items that people are finished with.

The waste has been reused for practical items (a bag made from old material) and artistically (sculpture).

How can we reuse it?

Your task is to design something that can be made from the waste in your home, it could be an old t-shirt or a toy you no longer use, or perhaps an old magazine. It can be something useful or something decorative. Add labels to your design.
