

Talk for Writing Home-school booklets

English Daily Tasks Update

Dear Parents and Carers,

We have received very positive feedback from parents and carers regarding the 'Talk for Writing' booklets which we made available at the start of this half term. We are really pleased to share with you the second batch of booklets for each year group. You will find them saved on our school website by clicking on 'Learning at Home' and then visiting your class page.

These booklets are designed to provide work across two weeks and as before, we will be recommending to you via Twitter how to break up the activities into daily tasks. You can of course decide how to use them in the way which works the best for you.

You will see in the booklets that 'Talk for Writing' have asked for a donation to Great Ormond Street Hospital in return for use of these resources. We have donated money from BEFS and will continue to do so when we share these resources with you.

Please continue to show us what you have been doing if you can because we love to see how you have been getting on.

Teachers will also continue to recommend additional English activities where relevant and please try to encourage your child to keep reading when they can.

Thank you

Mrs Ward, English Leader
