This Week's Learning

Pink Group have shown how they are the experts at creating cake decorations, running and knowing lots about 'garbage trucks' for their "Marvellous Me's". The children continue to be very confident in standing up in front of all their friends and proudly talking about what they know.

Something Special

Linking in with our STEM bridges, we have been making these inside and outside over the past few weeks and this week we have been designing enclosures. Why not try this at home?

Build a boat challenge

STEM stands for science, technology, engineering and mathematics. STEM is important because it pervades every part of our lives. Science is everywhere in the world around us. Technology is continuously expanding into every aspect of our lives. Engineering is the basic design of roads and bridges, but also tackles the challenges of changing global weather and environmentally-friendly changes to our homes. Mathematics is in every occupation, every activity we do in our lives.

Why not design a boat that floats? Draw your boat first and talk about shapes and sizes. Look at pictures of real boats. Collect what you need to make it, think about how will it stick together? Make your boat and see if it sinks or floats. Do you need to make any changes? Don't forget to take a photo and email it to pre-school!
