

Tina Cleugh - Chair of Governors

I would like to introduce myself as the newly appointed Chair of Governors, by the Edmund Rice Trustees, with effect from the Autumn Term 2016.

I have recently retired from a long teaching career. This included three Catholic Primary School Headships, one of which was on the Wirral, followed by 15 years headship in London until 2015. I remain an active Ofsted and Section 48 Inspector of schools.

My four children were all educated by the Christian Brothers and I have been an active supporter of the Edmund Rice family for over 30 years.

It is a great privilege to support the ongoing vision and work of Redcourt St. Anselm's. One of my granddaughters attends the nursery and her brother previously attended Redcourt St. Anselm's and is now a year seven pupil at St. Anselm's College.

The Governing Body with Miss Jones and her staff, are actively reviewing all aspects of the school, to ensure all the educational and pastoral needs of your children are being met to the highest standard. This includes a planned external review of teaching and learning this spring term by an external consultant, alongside the Diocesan Section 48 review.

Should you have suggestions or constructive feedback with regards to development of our school, please pass this initially through Miss Jones who will forward to the appropriate party.

The governor page on the website is being updated and will include regular updates on the progression of the school's identified priorities and action plans.

Taking on this role is a great privilege and I look forward to meeting you at various school events and engagements as we live out together the mission statement of, "growing together in God's love."

Yours in Blessed Edmund
