

Sharing Stories

We have had another fantastic week of learning at school, finishing off with our Storytelling Sharing Assembly on Friday. Each class performed the story that they have been learning in English lessons to each other and we were really pleased to see how much the children enjoy this way of learning and how it helps them to improve their writing. We hope to produce a few future authors judging by what we have seen so far. Especially in the Science Fiction genre, judging by what we saw from KS2 children!

This week we have published the updated School Development Plan for Parents on the school website. Please take the chance to look at this and see what the school's priorities are for your children this year. The document can be found in the 'parents information' section www.mevagisseyschool.co.uk

Finally, a polite request that infant children do not leave rucksacks to be stored in the school cloakrooms. It is becoming a struggle to find the space for extra bags on the coat hangers. Our premises manager, Mr Case, is looking at creative ways to create more storage space for us in the future. However, there is a cost to this and with increasing pressures on school budgets it is unlikely to be resolved as soon as we would like. In the meantime, thank you for your cooperation.

Have a great weekend.

Mr. Gynn
