Wednesday 28th February

Dear Parents,

The weather forecast keeps changing its mind about when any snow will start and how long it will last. However, we already have areas not too far away which are being affected today by snow and quite icy conditions.

It is unlikely that school will need to close tomorrow unless we do wake up to really deep snow or ice that makes it impossible or dangerous for us to get to school. If that is the case, we will put a notice on the school website as close to 7.00am as possible and inform Heart FM on 102.3FM who will announce the school closures regularly during their breakfast programme.

Please be aware, for those who travel by school transport, we have been notified that this has been cancelled for Thursday and Friday this week.

If we are in school tomorrow, it sounds like we will get snow at some time during the day so please send the children in with wellies and shoes and ensure that they have warm coats, hats, gloves and scarves.

If it snows heavily and we need to send children home during the day, we will send an email and update the website. Obviously we know that many of you will be at work and might not be able to get here quickly. Please be assured that we will not all go home and leave them on the doorstep. Those of us who live closest will stay on until the last child has gone. Obviously if we close, clubs will be cancelled.

So in a nutshell, make sure the children are dressed up in warm clothes and we will keep you informed about any closure.

Best wishes

Sarah Sparks
