Dear Parents/Carers,

J4 Class Blog

We would like to invite you to become a reader of our class blog.

You might be wondering 'what is a blog?' Well, a blog is essentially a website or an online space where our class can access, display and share learning/information with an authentic audience. We can use our Blog to:

- Create an online community for our students and their parents
- Share resources and notices
- Share students' work and learning (providing a real authentic audience)
- Provide up to date information on what is happening in our school
- Integrate multimedia of all descriptions
- Receive feedback (we would love to receive your comments and suggestions)
- Provide opportunities for students to read (posts) and write (posts and comments)

As you can see the blog is an amazing tool that has huge potential to enhance learning.

On the blog students will be identified by first name only in their posts. No other personal information i.e. address, last name, family information will appear on the blog.

The class blog is j4hbj.blogspot.com

On the blog you will see an area called 'follow our Blog'. If you type in your email address and click 'submit' you will receive notifications each time the blog is updated.

Regards,

Pete Bainbridge
