The Writers' Block

Revealing City Hall

Thanks to support from the National Lottery Heritage Fund, Hall For Cornwall have been delivering a huge activity plan of workshops, performances, talks & tours, to tell the story of the building as it is undergoing another major transformation.

In partnership with KEAP and The Writers' Block they have gathered stories with schools and community groups

Children from Truro Learning Academy, Bosvigo, St Mary's and Richard Lander schools have been heritage detectives, digging deep into the history to find out about quirky shows and events that have taken place, as well as more sober stories from 'Under the Clock. This building has seen some incredible things.

These hidden tales have been revealed through stories and poems created by the schools and local writers. They will be celebrated through an evening of sharing and a day of trails animated by The Story Republicans. Encounter the burning clock and escaping bulls, romantic dances and the magistrate's gavel.

Friday 12th July, 7pm at Waterstones, Boscawen Street, Truro

An evening of stories and poems inspired by City Hall and the Hall for Cornwall in the context of Truro itself, focusing on history and the many people who have passed through the building and looking to the future. Featuring writers such as Bert Biscoe, Wyl Menmuir, Simon Harvey and Amanda Harris read by Story Republicans Keith Sparrow and Connie Crosby. A chance to share your stories and memories too.

Saturday 13th July, Farmers Macket, Lemon Quay, Truro / 10.30 and 11.30 am, 1.30 and 2.30 pm

Tours for all the family. Last about 50 minutes.

Find our stall in the Farmers Market on Lemon Quay. The Story Republicans take families on a story trail illuminating the history and stories hidden behind the walls of the City Hall. Be entertained and learn tales of old, dogs to the rescue, lipstick walls and how the building has changed.
