Online Safety for Children

Following advice from Devon's Chief Officer for Children's Services, we are reminding all parents to monitor their children's online activity. The UK Safer Internet Centre encourages parents to talk about their online activity regularly and to let children share what they're playing or looking at, rather than asking them if they are playing a specific game. In school, our computing and Esafety curriculum teaches the children to always seek the support of an adult as a response to inappropriate content. For further advice:
