

In English this week we are planning and writing a wanted poster from the point of view of Boggis, Bunce and Bean. Use the planning sheet and this example poster to plan what you would like to include in your poster, see the WAGOLL attached to support your writing. Think about the presentation of the poster. You can draw a tail or print a picture, big bold writing and can spread it over 2 pages if necessary. We will be completing it over 3 days, so please take your time with it.

WANTED!

The Most Ferocious, Devious, Scheming Fox Ever

We are searching for a ferocious, devious, scheming fox. He must be killed because he is eating all of the animals on our farms. Can you help to find the lousy fox that this tail belongs to? If so, please read on!

Last Seen:

This mean animal was last seen emerging from a large hole under the huge oak tree in Deansway Woods at around 7.30 pm on Sunday 17th September. Unfortunately, when we tried to shoot him, we shot his tail, but missed the fox. Now, we must find him ... and quickly!

Description:

The wanted creature is a male fox with reddish-brown fur. He has a narrow, pointed nose and long whiskers. On the back of his head, he has triangular-shaped ears covered with tufted fur. He is approximately 70cm long and he is now tail-less because we shot his tail off, but missed the sneaky fox. As smart as a well-dressed gentleman, he wears a velvet, berry-coloured jacket with pointed tails. Underneath his jacket, he dresses in a yellow waistcoat and around his neck, he ties a white neckerchief with cobalt spots. And remember, this fox most definitely has no tail.

Most wild foxes eat other small native animals, such as field voles, small birds, wild rabbits, insects and earthworms. They live in the wild without causing any problems. However, this malevolent beast is devouring our livelihood. As sneaky as a diamond thief, he steals plump chickens, ducks, geese and turkeys from our farms. Not only is he stopping us from making money from these birds, but he is also causing us to become short of food.

We must stop this greedy brute now before he consumes the rest of our birds and destroys our chances of making a reasonable living. Please, look carefully around when you are out in the Woodloes area as this fox may be lurking behind a tree or skulking through the long grass. Remember, he is the sneakiest animal around so please take care when searching.

If you have any information regarding the whereabouts of this selfish fox, please contact Farmer Boggis immediately at Woodloes Farm on 07123 987654.

Please, help us find this annoying fox!

Many thanks for your help,

Farmer Boggis, Farmer Bunce and Farmer Bean

WALT Plan our Writing

| | | |
|----------------------------|------------------|---|
| adjectives | power of 3 | different nouns for a fox |
| subordinating conjunctions | adverbs -ly | prepositions |
| simile | superlative -est |  |

- We are searching for ... Question to the reader
- Last Seen Where? What happened there?
- Description Looks - fur / ears / nose / clothes etc.
- Why is he wanted?
- What to do now? Look around - where?
- If you have any information ... Contact phone number

E

| | |
|---|-------|
| WAGOLL - Mr Fox Wanted Poster | ✓ / • |
| adjectives & power of 3 | |
| different pronouns and nouns for Mr Fox mean fox, cruel creature | |
| subordinating conjunctions - when, if, because, as | |
| adverbs -ly | |
| prepositions - where? | |
| superlative - est | |
| fronted adverbial, | |
| WAGOLL - Non-Fiction Writing Features | ✓ / • |
| big, clear WANTED title | |
| underlined sub-headings | |
| paragraphs | |
| contact details - who to phone and phone number | |

