

Dear Year 6,

Have you had a nice Easter break? The weather has been wonderful - hopefully you have been able to get outdoors, even if it is just to spend time in your garden. It has been strange not being able to see one another; we hope you are keeping your spirits up and are enjoying time with your families.

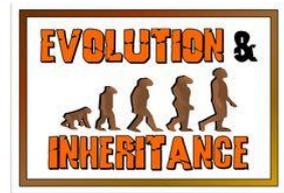

This week would have been the beginning of summer term and we would have launched a new, exciting topic: Crime and Punishment - exploring how different crimes were punished throughout history. To get you started at home, have a go at reading Miss Bellwood's story (Anne Askew - A true tale of Tudor crime and punishment) that can be found on the website. Miss Bellwood has even recorded a 'read along' eBook to accompany this! If you also look on the website, there are writing tasks and reading questions linked to this story for you to have a go at. When you have completed these, why not create a book review on Pic Collage or Book Creator? More information and activities about Tudor crimes can be located under the Humanities section.

Art Lesson 1.

To link to our Crime and Punishment topic, we would like you to explore street art. You could start by researching famous street artists and their work. If you need help with this, check out the information on the website under

For science this week, have a go at completing the activities in relation to Evolution and Inheritance, for example matching characteristics and learning key vocabulary. The information in the Science Lesson 1 presentation should help you.

Don't forget it is important to look after your mental health and wellbeing so why not try one of the PSHE activities we have suggested to maintain a positive mindset? Continue to stay active too by completing the live PE lessons with Joe Wicks or if you have an interest in dance, Strictly Come Dancing Professional, Oti, has classes daily on her Youtube channel.

Just before we go, we would like to share some exciting news with you:

The newest member of the Year 6 team, Wilf McGrath, arrived on Wednesday 15th April. Mr and Mrs McGrath are extremely happy, albeit a little tired and Nora is enjoying being a big sister. The whole family are incredibly grateful to the hard work and dedication of the key workers and thankful for the NHS at this time.

Keep positive, keep smiling and keep trying something new every day. Remember to show us what you've been doing via our Facebook and Twitter feeds so that we can stay connected.

Take care, Mr McGrath, Miss Ward and Miss Smith.
