Dress as an Animal Day – Today!

We have all had a wonderful day today dressing as animals! All the children have voted for an animal to adopt via WWF. Our votes will be counted, along with the other votes across the Rainbow Academy Trust schools, to decide which will be our shared animal. The idea is inspired by Prince Philip, his passion for conservation, and raising awareness of endangered species. We will share photos via our Facebook page.

We are very pleased to share we raised £79.70 Towards our Rainbow school's animal and look forward to finding out which animal had the most votes across all of our schools.

Final Note

Thank you for your understanding in relation to staffing challenges in recent weeks. I appreciate it can be an unsettling time and have sent out a separate letter to give a little more information.

We are currently voting on a new Cornish theme for our class names ready for the new year. Once the theme has been decided, the name will be chosen by the children and teacher in each class, on their transition day. I feel it is important for the children to have ownership of the name, and feel it is something they share collectively in their new year group. It cements their belonging in a new class.

Have a lovely weekend,

Take Care

Mrs Farrar
